

Rights Clash Ends In Court

Verdict Given To Be Written, Jackson Says

Washington, May 13—(AP)—The Supreme Court took the steel seizure case under advisement today after hearing two days of argument on whether President Truman had constitutional power to take possession of the mills. Arguments were completed at 1:32 p.m. (CST).

The supreme court was told today by the steel companies that government seizure of their mills could lead to losses of as high as $300 million. An administration lawyer called such fears "a lot of fantastic hogwashes."

Today's arguments wound up the debate on what may be one of the historic constitutional questions: What right does a president have to seize private property?

The only hint given on how long it may take to reach a decision came from Justice Jackson.

He said from the bench that he would oppose handing down any decision until the opinion has been written.

Occasionally, in an important case, the court announces its ruling and then hands down a formal opinion later, Jackson said he would oppose such a procedure here.

The supreme court got the case on an appeal from Federal Judge David A. Pine's decision. Pine said the seizure was illegal.

Most of the arguments today were devoted to (1) damages, and (2) whether President Truman should have used the Taft-Hartley act instead of seizing the mills, as he did on April 9.

Davis Speaks For Companies
John W. Davis, 79-year-old former Democratic presidential candidate, spoke for the companies.

Davis said there was no way to figure how much the companies may be hurt. But he said Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, who took over the mills, has "three, four, five times" talked of raising the wages of the 650,000 CIO steelworkers.

"What injury do you call irreparable?" he asked.

Then he said the damages could hit "100 million, 200 million, 300 million dollars."

Perman Speaks For Government
Perman insisted the steel companies have not been hurt, but that if they do have claims for damages, they can go to the court of claims for relief.

"How would you determine that?" Chief Justice Vinson asked. "What would be the measure of damage?"

Perman said that if the claims were filed, the court could determine how much damage was done.

As for Taft-Hartley, Perman repeated an argument he used yesterday, that the president, in using the Wage Stabilization Board to handle the dispute, had chosen "an alternative method."

He was backed up in this by Arthur Goldberg, who was appearing for the CIO Steelworkers as a "friend of the court."

Goldberg said that every safeguard provided for by Taft-Hartley had been used, and more. Taft-Hartley, he said, provides that union and management must have an 80-day cooling off period in which to bargain.

Under the route chosen by the president, he said, the cooling off period was 99 days.

Controls Kept On Wages-Prices

Washington, May 13—(AP)—The Senate banking committee voted tonight to continue wage-price controls to next March 1 but to strip the Wage Stabilization Board of dispute-settling authority.

The committee also voted to extend rent control and authority to allocate scarce essential materials through June 30, 1953.

President Truman had asked that all controls—wage, price, rent and allocation restrictions—be extended through June 30, 1954. The present law expires June 30 this year.

The action on WSB power to step into disputes is an outgrowth of the steel crisis. There has been strong criticism in congress of the amount of the pay raises the board recommended in that situation and also of its recommendation for the union shop.

ADVISES PARENTS TO CENSOR PROGRAMS FOR THEIR KIDS
Washington, May 13—(AP)—Congress can't do much to stop children from watching harmful TV programs, but their parents can, says Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.).

"Why does not dad," he asked, "just turn off the objectionable program and tell the kids, 'Now you have seen enough for tonight, instead of writing to his congressman?'"

Koje Command To Gen. Boatner Of New Orleans

Seoul, Korea, Wednesday, May 14—(AP)—A tough U. S. combat general, who also is an old China hand, Tuesday took command of tense Kojé island where Red prisoners seized the prison boss last week.

Chinese-speaking Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner of New Orleans, assistant commander of the U. S. Second Infantry division, flew to Kojé within hours after his appointment.

He relieved Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson who was appointed temporarily Thursday—a day after seized North Korean prisoners seized Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd.

Dodd, released unharmed Saturday night after Colson had granted concessions to the Reds, was reassigned to U. S. Eighth army headquarters. Colson went back to his old job as chief of staff to the First Corps in Korea.

In Tokyo, Gen. Mark Clark's public information officer said he was authorized to state that Colson was relieved as Kojé prison camp commander by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth army commander, on orders from Clark himself. Clark is the new supreme Allied commander.

The spokesman explained that it is customary for responsible officers to be relieved of their posts during an investigation of an incident, such as Kojé island provided.

The wording of Colson's concessions was criticized sharply by the U. S. defense department in Washington. A spokesman said it gave an erroneous impression of Allied treatment of Chinese and North Korean prisoners.

It was learned the joint chiefs of staff had demanded immediate clarification of circumstances leading to Dodd's capture and Colson's promised concessions.

The new commander of the rocky island is a 51-year-old professional soldier who served in various posts with the Chinese Nationalists during World War II.

Boatner was Gen. Joseph Stilwell's chief of staff for the Chinese army in India, commanding general of combat troops in the Leda sector and commander of the northern (Chinese) combat area of the China-Burma-India theater.

In 1944, Boatner was chief of staff and deputy commanding general of the Chinese combat command.

Ten Painless Days After Surgery With New Drug
New York, May 13—(AP)—No pain for 10 days after surgery is credited to a drug shown today to the New York State Medical Society.

The drug, a local anesthetic, numbs the nerves. It is injected at the site of the operation, or into nerve trunks that lead to the site.

By the time the drug wears off, the wound often no longer hurts, said Drs. Alfred H. Tason and Herbert E. Shafel of Brooklyn, N.Y., they demonstrated how to use the drug, efocaine, in an exhibit at the society's sessions.

In some cases it has banished pain for two weeks, and "some patients have never even known they had an operation," they said.

In chest and abdominal operations, the freedom from pain allows patients to get up and move much earlier than usual, and this early movement is good medicine itself.

Also, they said, there is less chance of lung congestion or other complications coming because patients avoid breathing deeply or coughing in order to escape pain. Patients need no narcotics to deaden pain.

SCHOOL LAND REVERTS TO ORIGINAL OWNER OR HEIRS, JUDGE SAYS

Danville, Ill., May 13—(AP)—Federal Judge Casper Platt has ordered some school land that was abandoned and sold returned to heirs of its original owner.

In a decision yesterday, Judge Platt ruled the land in Platt county near Monticello, should revert to Glen D. and Edna L. Kelly of Danville, Ill., but that buildings on it were properly the property of school trustees who sold both land and buildings last January.

The school trustees sold the land and buildings of an abandoned country school to Floyd Bowman, near Monticello. The Kellys protested that since the land was not longer used for school purposes, it should revert to them as heirs of the owner from whom it was purchased in 1906.

Attorneys for the trustees argued that school officials had obtained clear title to the land and could therefore sell it. The court ruled that the land should be turned over to the Kellys but that the buildings could be sold by the trustees.

Red Tirades Widen Breach In Truce Talks

Munsan, Korea, Wednesday, May 14—(AP)—Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy told the Reds Tuesday their continuous propaganda outbursts were aimed solely at widening the already broad breach in the Korean truce talks.

But, despite the prolonged Communist tirades, the senior Allied armistice delegate agreed patiently to meet at Panmunjom again today at 11 a.m. (8 p.m., CST Tuesday).

Joy's statement followed a 30-minute tirade by North Korean Gen. Nam Il. Speaking so loudly he could be heard by newsmen outside the conference tent, the Red delegate repeated charges of mistreatment of Communist prisoners.

After Nam Il finished, Joy told him: "These propaganda statements of yours are calculated not to facilitate agreement but to widen the breach between our two sides."

"There is one fact that you are not willing to face or do not understand: the United Nations' command's compromise proposal is firm, final and irrevocable."

He referred to the offer of April 28 under which the U. N. command would exchange 70,000 prisoners for 12,000 held by the Reds, and drop its demand for a ban on airfield construction if the Reds withdraw Russia's nomination as a neutral truce inspector.

The explosive prisoner controversy is the biggest issue blocking a truce. The Reds have pulled out all the stops in propaganda blasts about the violence at the Allied prison stockade on Kojé island—riots started by the Reds themselves.

Foreign Aid Bill May Get Sliced $400 Million

Washington, May 13—(AP)—A move developed in the senate today to cut an additional 400 million dollars out of the foreign aid bill—despite D. Eisenhower's statement that such a cut might endanger American security.

House and senate committees already have reduced the mutual security measure by one billion dollars, recommending that spending in the next fiscal year be limited to $6,900,000,000.

Eisenhower, commander of the North Atlantic Treaty army, cabled Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) last week that if the cut were substantially more than a billion it would create difficulties which might well include "a drastic revision of the whole program."

He told Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) in another cable yesterday that such a cut would have a profound effect "both in discouraging our friends and encouraging those potentially hostile to us."

Disagreeing with this analysis, Sen. Long (D-La.) moved at a closed meeting of the armed services committee today that another cross-the-board cut be made to trim the huge bill by an additional 400 million.

It was reported that Long's motion was approved by a 5 to 1 vote. This is not a quorum of the committee, however, so acting chairman Byrd (D-Va.) ordered the other seven members polled before 4 p.m. (CST) tomorrow. The bill will then be reported back to the Senate with the resulting recommendations.

GOP State Meet In Springfield Armory June 23

Springfield, Ill., May 13—(AP)—The Republican state convention will be held June 23 in the state armory at Springfield, it was announced today.

Morton H. Hollingsworth of Joliet, chairman of the party's state central committee, disclosed the time and place.

Main work of the convention will be selection of 10 delegates-at-large to the GOP national convention and three nominees for University of Illinois trustee in the November election.

Writing of a state platform is expected to be put off until after the GOP national convention in July.

Hollingsworth, who was elected state chairman last week, designated William R. Allen of Peoria as head of the committee on convention arrangements.

FIRE CHIEF TO THE RESCUE

Olympia, Wash., May 13—(AP)—When old Dobbin fell into a well here, Fire Chief Harry Lynch presided wisely. And it worked.

The horse was wallowing in about two feet of mud and six inches of water when discovered yesterday. Police and bystanders dug down one side of the well so the horse could come up a slope instead of a sheer wall if it could get out of the mud.

Then they followed the fire chief's advice, gave the animal a shot of whiskey and tugged on a rope. Out came the horse.

"It was an old custom to treat horses in the fire service with a shot of red-eye when they were in distress," said Fire Chief Lynch. "That's what gave the horse the final energy to get out."

The Good Old Days For An Hour In Kansas

Hutchinson, Kan., May 13—(AP)—For an hour Wednesday morning Hutchinson residents will be back in the good old days when a dollar was a dollar.

Prices will be rolled back to levels of 1902 for one hour as part of a city-wide celebration in connection with the premiere of a movie filmed here last summer.

For instance merchants are advertising popular phonograph records at the 1902 price of 39 cents as they are today.

Linen dusters, very popular in 1902 when motoring was in its infancy, are back on the racks. The present day version has been knocked down from $17.95 to $11.95.

Women shoppers will be able to buy a pair of nylon hose at 39 cents—just what the 1902 Miss paid for cotton hose.

You can buy ginger snaps for a nickel pound or walk out with $1.50 silk neckties for 35 cents.

At those prices, Reussner said, merchants will be losing money, but "mostly they're going along for the fun of it."

He admitted, too, a shopper would have to be sound of mind and limb to hit all of the 24 participating stores in the hour between 9:30 and 10:30 a.m.

6 Airmen Safe, 1 Dead, 7 Missing As Planes Crash

Los Angeles, May 13—(AP)—One man was killed and seven men were reported missing today as an air force B-29 and a Marine fighter plane collided over the Pacific ocean about 10 miles southwest of Santa Catalina island.

Six men parachuted to safety and were picked up from the water. At least a dozen planes and several dozen boats—both naval and civilian—continued the search for possible survivors.

Five survivors and the body of one air force man were picked up by the Navy's heavy cruiser Toledo. A Coast Guard PBM plane picked up a sixth man and flew him to San Diego Naval hospital.

Armed forces public information officers said the survivors appeared to be "in good shape."

The B-29, from the 106th Bomb Wing at March Air Force Base, Riverside, Calif., carried a crew of 13 men, the base reported. The Marine plane contained only the pilot.

Only seven parachutes were observed by Marine Lt. Col. Arthur M. Moran of El Toro Marine Air Station. Moran was flying near the P4U Corsair involved in the crash. Details of his report were not immediately available.

The Navy, Coast Guard, Air Force and Marines combined in searching the waters near Santa Catalina. The crash occurred about 40 miles off the coast town of San Clemente.

The time of collision was given as 12:46 p.m., (CST).

The B-29 was on a routine training flight, March AFB said.

N. Dakota Demos Send Delegates Uninstructed

Minot, N.D., May 13—(AP)—North Dakota Democrats, bitterly embittered in an intra-party feud, today voted to send 16 uninstructed delegates to the party's national convention.

Prayed by an afternoon of bickering over items which had nothing to do with the national convention, the Democrats decided to fold up for the day before naming the actual delegates.

The issue of whether an uninstructed delegation would be sent was settled with the re-election of Dave Kelly, longtime state Democratic boss, as national committee man. Kelly defeated Gorman King 238-85.

Kelly's election virtually assured a national convention delegation uninstructed for any residential candidate. Kelly is opposed to an instructed delegation.

FLOWER POT CAUSES CHILD'S DEATH

Peoria, Ill., May 13—(AP)—A flower pot fell on 3-year-old Gary Waters today, fatally injuring him. The accident occurred while he was playing on the front porch of his home with a neighborhood girl.

He at first appeared to be unhurt, his mother told police, but several minutes later collapsed. She rushed him to the hospital, where he died.

FORMER NEWSMAN DIES
Springfield, Ill., May 13—(AP)—Will T. Colvin, 75, of Springfield, former newspaperman and state supervisor of pardons and paroles, died today after a lengthy illness.

Steel Union Hints New Strike Threat

Philadelphia, May 13—(AP)—The CIO Steelworkers tossed out a hint of a possible new steel strike threat today as union chief Philip Murray angrily charged "the industry with breaking government labor 'rules.'"

A resolution presented to the union's opening convention sessions by its resolutions committee, apparently with Murray's endorsement, said the union's wage and other demands "must be promptly solved."

The proposed resolution, which is likely to be adopted at tomorrow's session, went on to say: "We cannot and will not continue to work in 1952 for 1950 wages and working conditions; we cannot and will not continue indefinitely to work without satisfactory collective bargaining contracts."

The steelworkers are now technically employees of the government, and as such legally barred from striking. However, President Truman's month-old steel industry seizure is under court attack and the issue is currently being argued before the supreme court in Washington.

Murray, in his keynote address to the more than 2,500 cheering delegates, said the steel industry has broken the "rules of the game" by talking at Wage Stabilization Board settlement proposals. Murray pledged that the industry won't "get away with it."

In late afternoon, the convention unanimously adopted by voice vote a resolution committing the million-member steelworkers union to an active political action program in the 1952 presidential campaign.

Language of this resolution, calling for a congress and national administration to "carry on the battle for human progress in the spirit of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman," strongly indicated that the union, if not the entire CIO which Murray also heads, will be in the Democratic fold again in the November elections.

Murray, talking up labor political action this year, told the delegates "every gain you've won in the past 20 years is being thrust in jeopardy in the 1952 election."

Beyond saying that Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) was "inimical to labor," Murray mentioned none of the political candidates. He did, however, say some "hovering over the horizon" have not made their views clear, but that the people would judge them. This last was an apparent reference to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Murray never mentioned in his 70-minute keynote address the convention the historic argument under way in the supreme court in Washington regarding the legality of President Truman's seizure of the steel industry.

Sen. Taft Says He'll Not Conduct 'Me Too' Campaign

Washington, May 13—(AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today if he wins the Republican presidential nomination he will not conduct a "me-too" campaign.

But he said he has no doubt Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York will recommend a "me too" campaign to General Eisenhower.

The Ohio senator made these statements at a public conference with women members of his campaign finance committee.

Asked by one of the women if he doesn't believe the Democrats started "the propaganda that Taft can't win," the Ohioan replied he thinks it was started by President Truman.

"The answer to that is that I always have won," he said. "After all, winning depends on the kind of campaign you put on."

"I would not conduct the kind of 'me-too' campaign conducted by Gov. Dewey in 1948 and which I have no doubt he will recommend to General Eisenhower."

WHAT WOULD YOU DO WITH 16 DOGS?

St. Louis, May 13—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Roland Alfild go in for dogs in a big way, but Alfild was doing most of the growing today.

Their 100-pound St. Bernard, using their bedroom as a maternity ward, gave birth to a litter of 15 pups last night.

"Dogs, dogs, dogs," said Alfild. "Everywhere I look, dogs."

How does it feel to be the owner of 15 pups that will grow up to eat something like 60 pounds of food daily?

"I am purposely not thinking about it yet," Alfild replied. "I had a tough night."

CHILD OF 10 STEALS JEWELS

New York, May 13—(AP)—A cute, blonde little 10-year-old girl was accused today of turning jewel thief to finance her older sister's modeling career.

The child allegedly burglarized a playmate's home and made away with $500 worth of jewels.

The older sister, Paula Daigneault, a part 17-year-old, was released in the custody of her parents by felony magistrate David McKean to await a hearing on a conspiracy charge.

Oil Strikers To Continue

Ridgway Arrives Ready To Assume NATO's Command

San Francisco, May 13—(AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway returned home today from 17 months of Asia's hot war with a minimum of fanfare and deeply resolved to "put my shoulder to the wheel" as NATO's new commander.

He will succeed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in Paris late this month as Supreme Allied commander, Europe. Only 48 hours before his arrival he turned over the United Nations and Far East commands to Gen. Mark Clark in Tokyo.

The energetic, 57-year-old general told a press conference at Sixth Army headquarters shortly after his 9:25 a.m. arrival that both his old and new jobs, half a world apart, "have the same objective. It's the same struggle against the same vicious forces."

He said he was "exceedingly proud" the president of the United States has "given me an opportunity to put my shoulder to the wheel in this great collective effort to preserve liberty."

Ridgway paid high tribute to the United Nations army in Korea. "The United Nations had successfully carried out its first mission—to repel aggression." The second phase of the U.N. objective, he said, was restoration of international peace.

"We have striven by every honorable means to reach cessation of hostilities," he declared.

Asked if the militarists might again take over control of Japan, Ridgway said: "The present Japanese government and an overwhelming majority of the people are acutely alive to that possibility and determined it shall not happen."

Price Increases On Food Called Only Pennies

Cleveland, May 13—(AP)—Some food prices will increase soon but the boosts will amount to "only pennies" in the household's budget, Price Stabilizer Ellis G. Arnall said today.

Here for a super market institute meeting, Arnall predicted price controls would be extended beyond June 30 and said they may be "strengthened."

He did not list what foods would be affected.

The OPS, he said in a speech, made a study of prices, and "our findings are that earnings of super markets and chain stores are such that they are entitled to some increases."

The institute meeting here is an organization of super markets and food chains.

Last Friday OPS officials at Washington disclosed they were getting ready to boost prices on a number of things including concentrated coffee, canned fruits and vegetables, dry cereals, crackers and most canned meats except tuna and salmon.

Eat More Bread Millers Advise

Chicago, May 13—(AP)—A milling executive said today the milling industry faces economic attrition unless the people reverse a trend in eating habits and start consuming more flour.

Charles H. Bell, executive vice president of General Mills, Inc., Minneapolis, urged millers to give "enthusiastic support to promotional activities which stabilize or reverse the trend in per capita consumption of foods made from flour."

Bell told delegates to the annual meeting of the Miller's National Federation, industry trade association, that the rate of flour usage today averages only 135 pounds a person a year compared with 200 pounds at the turn of the century.

He said manufacturers of luxury foodstuffs have "joined enthusiastically in strong industry associations and with imagination and aggressiveness have out-merchandised us whose bread and butter depends upon bread which is still known as the staff of life."

He saw a bright spot, however. Because of increasing population, flour production has remained at an almost constant level for the last 15 years. Continued population increases are in prospect for the next quarter century.

GRANDSON OF POET DIES

Harrisburg, Pa., May 13—(AP)—Allston Dana, prominent bridge designer and grandson of poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, died here yesterday of a heart attack. He was 67.

Dana designed the George Washington, Triboro and Bronx bridges in New York City.

Gains Made In Meeting WSB Reports

Washington, May 13—(AP)—The nation-wide oil strike continued today with no firm prospect of quick settlement despite a Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) statement that "considerable progress has been made" towards settling some of the disputes.

A hundred or more oil executives, representing major companies across the country, and top officials of a score of oil unions spent the day in separate meetings with WSB members.

The board itself went to work on six local settlements, to see whether they are approvable under WSB anti-inflation regulations. Another obvious aim is to see if anything in the local agreements lays out a pattern for a general settlement.

The walkout of an estimated 90,000 oil workers, starting its third week, has cut off an estimated 33 per cent of the nation's oil production.

Flying Curtailed
With civilian flying already sharply curtailed and even the military cut back to conserve high-octane aviation gasoline, the pinch is beginning to be felt by motorists in some areas.

Meantime, Secretary of the Interior Chapman set up the framework of an organization to deal with spot shortages of petroleum products because of the oil strike. It applies to 15 states, most of them in the Midwest, and goes into effect tomorrow at 2:01 a.m. (CST).

Chapman issued an order which authorizes appointment of regional, state and local PAD supply directors in areas affected by the strike. They would be empowered to take actions as authorized by PAD "to direct petroleum to essential uses in the interest of national defense and maintenance of a sound civilian economy."

PAD Covers Illinois
The 15 states it covers are: North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The strike is under the direction of three union chiefs—O. A. Knight of the CIO Oil Workers, J. J. McKenna for a score of independents, and O. V. Clover for the AFL unions on strike in oil fields, pipelines and refineries.

After Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger adjourned a five-minute formal meeting at the start of today's negotiations, McKenna said he was "fed up."

JUST A QUESTION OF HOW MUCH

"If I gave anything, it would be to the Salvation Army."

Statements of this nature have been heard often during financial campaigns for charitable causes. Such assertions are a tribute to the work and service of the Salvation Army coming from persons who might tighten their purse strings at the thought of contributing to some cause but who delve with generous hands into their resources when a favorite organization needs help.

All friends of the Salvation Army, regardless of how much they have contributed in the past, have a chance to help it now. Those who rate it the top charitable organization of all, and others who divide their interests and money among numerous charitable and social agencies, can join in raising $100,000 needed to construct a new building and provide greater facilities for service.

The Salvation Army doesn't have to contend with "sales resistance" when it asks for money and conducts campaigns, which is rarely done. The man on the street, business men, educators, tradesmen, the odd-jobs man, everybody agrees that the Salvation Army is a worthy, practical organization, which does an untold amount of good.

The campaign is scheduled for June. Everyone in the Jacksonville area has plenty of time between now and the first of next month to recall the nice things they have said about the Salvation Army. When solicitation begins, large numbers of people will be eager to help the organization they know helps others.

Back over the years this community has witnessed many financial drives. The coming Salvation Army campaign should establish a new record for willingness to give.

AN UNUSUAL GIFT

Princeton University's Archives of American Letters, a collection started in 1939, will be much the richer because of an unusual gift received from a publisher. Dating back to 1858, the files of Henry Holt & Co., consisting of more than 400,000 letters and documents, have been presented to Princeton in 100 boxes and cartons, contents of which will be first of all presented to "pick-and-shovel" research.

Holt published such authors as Thomas Hardy, William James, Henry Adams, Robert Louis Stevenson, John Stuart Mill, A. E. Housman and William James. The correspondence with these authors ought to throw new light on their personalities, viewed at close, business range.

Yet unclassified, this material shows wide variation, as might be expected, in the temperament of authors, who range from the pleasant and hopeful to the frustrated and bad-tempered. All of which will be grist to the mills of scholarship, which grind with slow, patient application and so often bring brilliant new insights.

JUDICIAL INTEGRITY

What the bipartisan majority in Congress which stood firm against the late President Roosevelt's proposal to pack the Supreme Court feared was that such a court would approve unconstitutional acts engaged in by the President.

Mr. Roosevelt felt frustrated because the high court had turned thumbs down on a few of his shenanigans. Roosevelt wanted authority to increase the justices by a sufficient number so that a majority would have been his appointees.

But Congress stood firm after a bitter, rending battle. Now, 15 years later, nearly every sitting judge is an appointee of Roosevelt or Truman, but each has been confirmed by the Senate. Necessity of Senate confirmation no doubt has kept a few individuals off the bench who might otherwise have been named.

So the federal judiciary, though the product of one-party appointments, remains an independent arm of the government dedicated to interpreting the law according to constitutional authorization.

Marlow Says Supreme Court Stuck To Steel "Flypaper"

BY JAMES MARLOW

Washington, May 13—(AP)—The steel dispute has become a kind of fantastic flypaper entangling everyone and everything that touches it. Now even the supreme court's fingers are stuck in it.

The glue started to spread when bargaining broke down between the mill owners and the CIO Steelworkers. At once the government's mediators moved into getting both sides together. They got stuck.

Then came President Truman, who really tangled in it, and after him the Wage Stabilization Board, congress, the U. S. district court and the court of appeals. Now the supreme court.

H.S.T.'s Power Key Decision
This may turn out to be one of the most vital decisions given in the supreme court's history—if it rules directly on a president's power to seize private property when he says there's an emergency.

If the nine justices decide the constitution forbids a president to take private property, even in emergency, President Truman will have to turn the mills back to the owners.

That will almost certainly mean an immediate strike by the workers. They're working now because, since the government has the mills, they are in effect government employees.

If the owners get their mills back and the workers strike, it's hard to see how Truman can then any longer avoid using the Taft-Hartley act which he says he despises, and for this reason.

Mills Seized To Stop Shutdown
Truman says he took over the mills in the first place to prevent a shutdown in steel. If the workers quit, T-H is the only means left to keep them on the job. By using T-H Truman can get an injunction delaying a strike another 90 days. If there is still no settlement and congress hasn't passed an anti-strike law by the end of those 90 days, the steelworkers are free to walk out again. All remedies will have been exhausted.

The president could, of course, seek a solution in scraping wage and price controls since the steel companies insist they can't give the workers the raise they want unless the government lets them raise prices higher than the government says present controls will allow.

Further, if the court rules against presidential seizure in this case, it will have to take responsibility for the unforeseeable future when some other president, in an emergency, thinks seizure of some kind is necessary but feels helpless to act because of this court's ruling.

Another Side To Story
That's on the side of it. This other side is just as serious. This court may open the door for some future presidential tyrant to seize property and undermine the government if it rules now that the chief executive has special even though unwritten constitutional authority to take private property.

If the court lets the president hold the mills and raise wages, the mill owners, once they get their property back, never again will be able to persuade the workers to accept less pay than the government suggests.

But if the court lets the president keep the mills but says he can't raise the pay, it has created another situation: Will the steelworkers then continue working, even though the government is their employer?

vie comeback gleam in gorgeous Jeanette MacDonald's eyes and the one-time queen of MGM's super-duper musicals is admitting she's had all kinds of offers during her year's absence from Hollywood.

"But I didn't like the scripts," she said between rehearsals for the first filmed TV version of Duffy's Tavern. "I read scripts all the time," she said, "but I still haven't found one I really like. I'd rather leave a pleasant memory than come back and do a little old stinker."

Jeanette is clowning with Ed Gardner and singing Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts" on the Tavern show and then she hops back to her New York apartment to prepare for a summer concert tour.

Her opinion of current Hollywood musicals: "They don't seem to have much plot. That's what I always fought for."

A regular TV show for Jeanette and hubby Gene Raymond? "Maybe," she said.

Steve Cochran's pinching himself and saying "Somebody's kidding." But it's spelled T-R-U-E that Variety's 1951 poll of boxoffice grosses puts him in second place, just after Gregory Peck, as the actor whose movies brought in the most dollars.

With five movies to his credit, Steve's in the $9,000,000 drawing-power class and is saying:

"It's a freak thing, of course. It seems like only yesterday that I thought I was a flop as an actor in Hollywood. I had to leave town. I couldn't get a job."

Steve's latest at Warners: "Danger Forward." His secret ambition: to direct.

SHE LOST DECISION

The arena is empty and the decision is past history. But Joan Leslie, on the movie comeback trail in Commander Films' "Heligait," runs the day that she ever put up her pretty dukes in her historic battle with the Warner brothers.

Joan, who lost a fortune in her four-year battle for story approval and better roles, told me:

"Now that I'm older and wiser I realize that it was foolish to fight a studio. Now I know no actress ever gets exactly what she wants. You compromise here and there. I had bad advice. With good advice it would have been simple to settle the case with mutual benefit for everybody concerned."

Will she try to regain her former place in the movie sun now that she's married and the mother of twins? "I'm all wound up with ambition again," she smiled.

The wheel of fortune is spinning, spinning again for Virginia Grey, Hollywood's most jinxed actress.

She's been re-discovered by Hollywood because of a New York TV appearance, and if and when Clark Gable makes another film at MGM, Virginia will test for the leading lady role—the kind that Jean Harlow used to play.

But forget rumors that she'll be the next Mrs. Gable. She told me: "We've been friends for years. I'm just the 'good friend' in his life."

Says Virginia of the bad luck that's dogged her screen career in the face of critical raves for her beauty and acting know-how:

"I'm still trying to figure it out. It's darned discouraging. They always say they want a new face or a big star. That's the story of my life. But with all the ham ego, a girl keeps hanging on."

CHANGE OF HEART-THROB

Ray Bolger, who wasn't judged pretty enough to be starred along Gene Kelly lines when he was at MGM, is back in Hollywood as a Warner star and grinning about passing the romantic test at long last.

Nimble-footed Ray ends up with a lass in his arms in "Charley's Aunt," and wins Doris Day in "April in Paris," and he's saying:

"Hollywood has changed its feelings entirely. The handsome, stereotyped leading men aren't getting the jobs. Hollywood has discovered that the prettiest girls don't marry the handsome men. Danny Thomas proved it in 'I'll See You in My Dreams.' Nobody noticed his nose. There couldn't have been a more charming guy in the world than Danny in that picture."

"It sounds like Fannie Ward, but I was typed as an ingenue for almost 20 years. Even after having seven children, producers kept thinking of me as a young thing."

That's from the new Maureen O'Sullivan, with a gray streak in her hair and her first main part in UFA's "Bonzo Goes To College."

She declares: "I'm past the ingenue nonsense. When they asked me if I'd like to play a mother in this picture, I jumped at the chance. I want to go on from here, too. I want to play character parts. I want to be an adult actress."

Cases of Severe Phobia Call For Psychiatric Treatment

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

A correspondent writes that she has a neurosis of fear and is always depressed with everything. She says that she has been fighting this horrible thing for years and wonders what can be done about it.

Now, fear can be either normal or abnormal. Doubtless, there are few living persons who have not sometimes been afraid in the presence of real risk, but when there exists a fear of something which is imaginary, or which carries only slight danger, the reaction is called a phobia or obsession.

In severe cases which persons cannot overcome by themselves, this may be a symptom of real mental disease, and the aid of a psychiatrist should be sought. There are many kinds of fears and I shall mention only a few of them.

One fear is called acrophobia, which is fear of great heights. This seems to be quite common—probably so much that it is almost "normal." There is another fear called bathophobia, which means fear of great depths. If it really meant the way is sounds it would be common enough among children!

There are other phobias with long and astonishing names and even stranger meanings. At the risk of making this sound like a list, here are a few: aphobia—fear of bees; automophobia—fear of being dirty; bibliophobia—dislike of books; cheirophobia—fear of gaiety, and necrophobia—or fear of death. Obviously, the last is a fear which nearly everyone has. It is a true phobia only when a person thinks about death almost constantly.

Real phobias make the victims miserable and can completely dominate their lives and point of view. Even when the nature of fear seems humorous to the outsider, it is a constant source of annoyance to the person involved and causes untold mental distress.

Should anything be done about these abnormal fears? The answer is yes, if possible. But being afraid of something is abnormal only when it is excessive and there is no good reason for that fear.

WATCHING YOUR CHILDHOOD WALK UP THE STREET

Kansas City—(AP)—It is a long road back to childhood. It is hard to find the way.

Coming back to the home of his boyhood, a man finds it hard to forgive the changes. He has a vague resentment that things don't stay just as he left them... just as he holds them in memory.

He misses the neighbors who have died or moved away. Who cut down that tree in the back yard he climbed as a kid? The patch of blue sky looks bare and new. And the elm tree in the front yard. How did it ever get that tall?

Somehow he feels a stranger in the old house, lonesome because it has changed as much as he has. He has lost some hair and got a new false tooth. And the house has been shingled, papered, and modernized with a new sink, another bathroom and a fine gas furnace.

I always have this lost feeling momentarily when I return to visit our family home here. It is old enough to be getting hardening of the rafters. But instead it is getting disgracefully younger and younger looking as I get more and more middle-aged. Why should a man age and a house grow young? What kind of a world is that?

The nicest thing in our old home right now is my 8-year-old niece, Kathy, the prettiest cowboy in the block. Kathy is at an age when she is losing her belief in the Easter bunny but still has a firm faith in the angels.

Although Kathy is glad to see me, the thing she really likes best about my visits is that I sleep in her bed past.

and she gets to sleep with her grand-ma, which is a great privilege. There is nothing like children to keep a house from growing old, and I guess it is Kathy who keeps our house vital and young.

One morning I awoke early and went downstairs. The steps still creaked betrayingly, just as they had years before when any of the boys tried to creep silently up them after coming home late.

Sitting alone in the silent living room, a room full of old family memories of quarrels and kindness, tears and warmth, I had the feeling of being a prisoner between two worlds—the restless present and the lost, unchangeable past.

I walked to the big, old-fashioned front door and looked out. Up the street came two young boys, delivering the Sunday newspapers. They looked like brothers, and they were jostling each other and laughing.

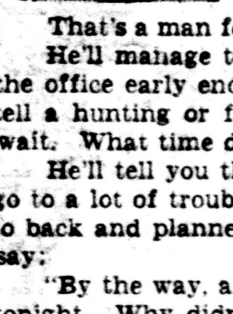

Thirty years ago my older brother, Edward, and I had walked through the dawn streets this same way, laughing, jostling and arguing as we threw the morning papers—kerplunk!—on the front porches.

I stepped out on the porch and picked up our paper. The two boys looked at me curiously, then walked on. I watched them go, and it was as if I stood on a little platform in time—watching myself and my brother live together again a lost morning part of our lives.

Somehow it gave me the thing every one comes back to find, and when I went inside the door I felt at home at last, and at peace with the home at last, and at peace with the home at last.

Contrary, Perverse, Illogical; Briefly, That's a Man for You

That's a man for you. He'll manage to persuade you that he positively can't get away from the office early enough to go on a family picnic and a few minutes later tell a hunting or fishing story. "I planned to work—but I guess it can wait. What time do you want to get started?"

He'll tell you that he is bringing someone home to dinner and not to go to a lot of trouble and then after you've cleaned the house from front to back and planned a special meal he'll telephone at the last minute to say:

"By the way, after I talked to you Jim found out he couldn't make it tonight. Why didn't I call sooner? Well, I didn't think it would make any difference. I told you not to go to a lot of trouble."

He'll read the paper all through breakfast—even though you follow all the rules about coming to the breakfast table looking your prettiest. He'll brag about how smart Junior is when he's talking to his lunch cronies. But to you he'll wonder if the kid will ever amount to anything at all.

He'll start a home repair job and then yell for you to bring him every tool he needs.

He'll grumble because he has to go to a party and then you'll have a harder time getting him to leave than you had getting him to go.

He'll tell you that you've got to stop feeding him so well, that he wants to lose weight, and then when you give him a light, sensible dinner he'll be raiding the icebox two hours later.

That's a man for you.

Labor, Management Rally for Showdown Fight on Union Shop

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
Washington—(NEA)—The possibility of an extended and bitter labor-management war today hangs over U. S. defense effort and the entire American economy.

If it comes, it will be a showdown fight over whether powerful labor union leaders or the no-less-powerful owners of American industry are to set the terms and working conditions of employment.

Federal Judge David A. Pine's decision ending government seizure of the steel mills is being hailed by the Washington representatives of many big business concerns as the end of a labor era.

They have been advised by their counsel that the law in Judge Pine's decision is so sound it can hardly be overruled by the Supreme Court. They are counting on that as the starting point for their new era, in which management will again be able to assert rights and end domination by union labor leaders.

It is the contention of management's representatives that this past union domination has been achieved in cooperation with the Democratic administration of President Harry Truman. While this political conviction cannot be proved as an actual conspiracy, it is believed by many businessmen to have been achieved by the unions with the tacit consent of U. S. government officials.

The key issue in the present labor strife is the "union shop." Under this form of labor contract, all employees of a company must agree to join a specific union and pay dues by check-off.

Employers' representatives see in the present demands for the union shop a determination to get this provision while there is still a pro-union labor administration in control in Washington.

Exhibit number one in support of this contention is the fact that John L. Lewis was able to secure two extremely favorable contracts for his United Mine Workers while the coal industry was under government seizure.

Exhibit two is the non-operating Railway Brotherhood's effort to get a union shop agreement with the carriers. This case was put before an emergency board under the Railway Labor Act and it is still pending, with neither side giving an inch.

Exhibit three is the current steel case in which the Wage Stabilization Board recommended negotiation for a union shop to cover the entire steel industry.

Behind the charge of government-union collaboration in this case there is a considerable plot, according to industry spokesmen. In brief it is that union leaders began planning over a year ago to force acceptance of the union shop on American business.

The first Wage Stabilization Board, appointed in November, 1950, had authority to deal only with wage disputes. On Feb. 15, 1951, this board under Cyrus Ching recommended a 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases. The three union labor members then walked out in what amounted to a strike against the government.

In setting up a new WSB, President Truman followed the recommendations of his Defense Mobilization Advisory Board. He gave the new WSB authority to consider all disputes, including non-economic matters like the union shop demand.

This was exactly what the union officials wanted. It is the contention of many industrial leaders that this procedure was engineered to force the government's hand and make it an accomplice in getting union shop contracts under emergency conditions.

This charge is supported—unconsciously, perhaps, but none the less—Nathan P. Feinsinger, Chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board that handed down the steel case recommendations.

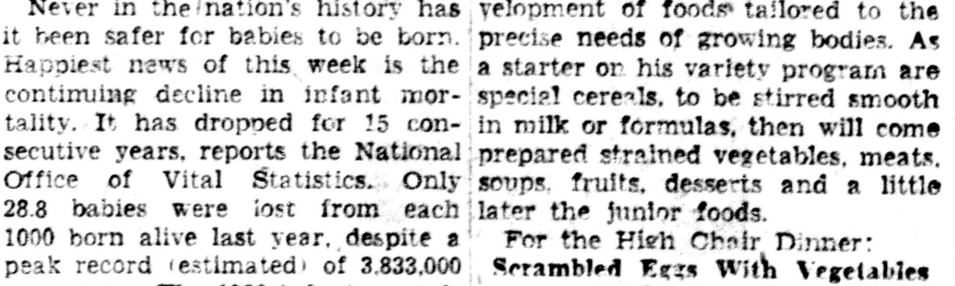

In a recent question and answer interview in U. S. News and World Report, Chairman Feinsinger admitted that "this question of whether the Wage Stabilization Board should have dispute jurisdiction over non-economic issues, including the 'union shop' issue, was decided way back when the Defense Mobilization Board advised the President."

"Everybody knew," said Mr. Feinsinger, that the union shop "was going to be an issue in the steel case. Everybody knew that if this Wage Stabilization Board was set up, the chances were it would get the steel case."

These somewhat surprising statements indicate how the ground was carefully laid by the unions to get government backing for their effort to impose the union shop on U. S. industry.

All-Day Picnic Held For School Patrolmen

Illinois College's old athletic field, opposite Beecher Hall, was the scene of a gigantic picnic at noon Tuesday when more than 850 school children, guests of the Chicago Motor Club, gathered for a day of festivities and entertainment.

The occasion was the annual picnic in this area for members of school patrols in communities in four surrounding counties. The grade and junior high schools from 18 towns located in Morgan, Scott, Cass and Pike counties sent patrol members to the affair, which wound up late in the afternoon.

H. Gary Hudson, president of Illinois College, spoke to the patrol boys and girls at noon, welcoming them to the campus. He told the young policemen that "responsibility breeds character. You have had placed on your shoulders the safety of your schoolmates. You are to be congratulated on the way you have carried out your important assignments."

Purpose of the picnic is to honor members of school patrols who have served at least one semester on their patrols during the current school year. The Chicago Motor Club, sponsor of the project, was the originator of the school patrol system in the 1920's. Since the first patrols were organized as a measure to enhance the safety of children going to and from schools, the patrol system has spread all over this country and into foreign countries. American tourists traveling abroad in recent years have reported seeing similar patrols in Germany, France, Great Britain and Japan.

Tuesday's picnic here got underway at 10:30 a. m. The pupils spent the morning playing various kinds of organized games on the college campus, until noon. Following the mass picnic at noon and President Hudson's speech, more games were played till the middle of the afternoon. At 3:30 p. m. the boys and girls were invited to attend the Illinois College-Quincy College baseball game.

Schools which sent representatives from their patrols include both public and parochial schools. Communities represented were Alexander, Alsey, Arenzville, Barry, Beardstown, Bluff Springs, Chapin, Concord, Franklin, Glasgow, Jacksonville, South Jacksonville, Meredosia, Pittsfield, Virginia, Waverly and Winchester. Several communities, including Beardstown, Jacksonville and Pittsfield, had pupils hailing from more than one school.

Carter H. Wilson, local manager of the Chicago Motor Club, was in charge of the day's entertainment.

Chicago Alderman To Speak At I.C. Chapel

Robert E. Merriam, alderman from the 5th Ward in Chicago, will speak in Jones Chapel at Illinois College on Thursday at 10:45 a. m. Mr. Merriam, who has led the recent fight against crime and corruption in the government of the city of Chicago, will discuss "Crime and City Government."

The youngest member of the city council, Mr. Merriam had an active career before he was elected alderman from the ward which embraces Hyde Park and the University of Chicago. Youngest son of the famous political scientist, Dr. Charles E. Merriam, Bob Merriam received a master's degree from the University of Chicago in Public Administration in 1940 and immediately plunged into the government career for which he had been trained.

Through service and experience in agencies of government, he has become an expert on city planning and housing.

In 1941 he served as deputy administrator of the National Housing Agency which was planning and organizing the war housing program. The war interrupted his career. Entering the service as an army private he served with the infantry, became an officer, went to Europe where he was assigned to the 9th Army as a combat reporter. He was an eyewitness observer of the Battle of the Bulge in December, 1944. After the war, Mr. Merriam headed a writing team which compiled the official history of that last desperate battle.

Deviations were conducted by Mrs. John Sommers who told the history of Whistler's Mother. The president read a humorous article, "How Mother Has Changed."

The program chairman, Mrs. Ivan Garrison, introduced Miss Maria Aguilar of Honduras, Central America, who is a student at MacMurray College. Miss Aguilar told of her country, education there, religious beliefs and general social conditions. The annual treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Thomas Svob and the closing prayer by Miss DeMotte. At the close of the meeting lovely refreshments were served from an attractive tea table with the president elect, Mrs. Wells pouring.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THOSE WHO LIKE TO SEE GOOD PLAYS

DEAR THEATRE GOERS:
Wouldn't you like to be assured that you could see a good play excellently done without going to St. Louis or Chicago? I'm going to give you that assurance—in fact I'm going to insist that you accept a refund of your money if you do not feel that it is the equal of any show you have seen in the past few years! Note that there is no mention of amateur or professional—just the level of quality!

Now why can such an assurance be given? Ask any one of our season ticket patrons about their reactions to "Hay Fever" and "Goodbye My Fancy." Without equivocation they will tell you that these were two fine productions.

Now—THE HEIRESS which is to be given May 15th and 16th and May 31st will feature a professional guest actor, Mr. Geoffrey Lardner from Chicago. And as for the young lady Miss Rodgers who plays the part of the heiress, and in fact, the entire cast, do not take my word for it, but take Mr. Lardner's assurance that here is a group of actors and actresses doing a marvelous job. I might add that Mr. Lardner is a perfectionist as a director, himself, who received his training at the Birmingham Repertory Theatre School in England.

You are welcome to come to our performances at the Little Theatre on Court street right back of Our Saviour's Hospital. Many of you have never been there. I dare you to come for 1 know you will come again. Tickets are only 75 cents for reserved seats. Call us at 1478 to have seats set aside for you or buy them at the box office when you come.

Yours sincerely,
Ray E. Holcombe,
Director, MacMurray Theatre.

fun for you at the St. Louis Zoo

"The Best in the World"

That's what zoo experts call this amazing collection of animals, reptiles and birds from all corners of the world. Here you'll see enormous snakes from the Indian jungles... powerful bears from the wilds of Alaska... pandas from China... brilliant birds, graceful gazelles, playful seals, roaring lions—practically every known species.

But the chimpanzees steal the show. These talented jungle clowns ride bicycles, play musical instruments, drive jeeps and perform other antics that will astound and delight you. It's worth a trip to St. Louis just to see their performance, which has been featured on newsreels all over the country. See them "in person" in St. Louis—"City of a Thousand Sights," and be sure to bring the children.

DON'T TAKE OUR WORD FOR IT! DRIVE IN AND SEE FOR YOURSELF... IF YOUR CAR NEEDS WHEEL ALIGNING

JOHN RIEF
Operator of Visualiner

The bad conditions of many highways this spring is more apt to throw the front of your wheels out of line. This can cause unneeded wear on your tires, enough to rob them of 2,000 to 3,000 miles of wear. Front wheels out of line on the modern cars of today, also means the car will be hard to steer and will have a tendency to swerve to one side of the road, which is dangerous when brakes are applied.

The John Beam Visualiner in the Service Department at Cox-Buick will show you whether your car needs wheel aligning service. This Visualiner projects micro accurate enlarged readings on two screens... these beams of light are easy to follow as corrections are being made.

Composite Alien

Foreign-born Newcomers Learning Our Ways

Turn Out to Be Like American Man on Street

TYPICAL NEWCOMERS beginning life in U. S. learn about our government in free classes like this one at the Philadelphia International Institute. Ilze Zalitis, from Latvia, is reciting.

By NEA Service

New York—(NEA)—Hundreds of thousands of foreign born persons, most of whom fled the oppression of communism, are beginning a new life in the United States and sometimes under the puzzled stares of native Americans who don't understand them.

Actually, however, the typical newcomer to this country, says Mrs. Edith Terry Bremer, national director of the American Federation of International Institutes, which aided 400,000 foreign born in the U. S. last year, is pretty much like the man on the street in any American community.

This average alien learning American ways and preparing himself for citizenship, according to Mrs. Bremer, feels this way:

Expects an early war between the United States and Russia.

Passionately desires security and a home.

Is extremely saving. (One Ukrainian couple in Philadelphia with combined weekly earnings of $75, saved $1100 in nine months because they wanted a home. But the diet of themselves and their two young children suffered as a result.)

Prides himself on the quality of his work rather than quantity.

Is a great churchgoer and doesn't have many vices (although his income generally is such that he couldn't afford many vices anyway, says Mrs. Bremer.)

Doesn't know the difference between Democrats and Republicans.

(Our politics are a mystery to him and unlike the average American, the immigrant thinks our criticism of public officials is terrible.)

Has a great respect for authority and is more law abiding than native or long-time naturalized Americans.

Is an eager beaver at work but he doesn't get the satisfaction from his work as he once did before the war and communism dimmed his hopes for a happy life in Europe. Chief reason for this is his ignorance of English, which limits his job opportunities and usually compels him to work at menial tasks.

Wants to become a citizen. (One of the first things he generally does is enroll in English classes at his local International Institute, which in addition to blending the immigrant into American community life, advises him, helps him find a job and living quarters when he first arrives and if necessary, loans him money without interest.)

That, says Mrs. Bremer, is a composite immigrant, almost all of whom are shocked at America's dirty streets and who daily struggle with the English language. Like one bewildered immigrant who asked a volunteer teacher in the Boston institute: "You have Mr. and Mrs. and Miss. But what's a lady?"

You can swing it if you try

HAVE you, by any chance, been casting eyes at a Buick, and promising yourself that someday you will take the Big Step and have one all your own?

Let us whisper something to you. The "big step" isn't big at all.

We know that's true, because such a high percentage of present Buick owners traded in a car tagged as belonging in "the low-priced field."

So why not set your sights on this star performer?

Why not enjoy big-car comfort—big-car power—big-car prestige for your money?

There's one of these lively lovelies waiting for you to come in and try it.

Get the feel of its mighty Fireball 8 Engine, that's a gas-saving high-compression valve-in-head. You could pay $300 to $400 more for a car that doesn't match its horsepower.

Get the feel of Dynaflo Drive*, that lets you ride relaxed—feeds a silken flow of power—and at the same time cuts down on upkeep costs, by protecting the engine, the rear end, and even the tires, from driving strains.

Get the feel of a ride that cost a million dollars and more for controls of end-sway and side-roll and vertical "throw" — for X-bracing the frame and V-bracing the torque-tube keel—for a total of 15 ride-engineering features.

One thing you'll know for sure when you've tried it. This car wasn't "built to a price." It's a Buick through and through.

But the fact remains that—when you check the price of a Buick SPECIAL against the price tags on so-called "low-priced cars"—you'll find out you can swing it if you really want to.

And brother, will that make your family happy!

Clothes Look Pretty Under Sun

New York—(NEA)—Cottons for casual living frequently take to cover-ups, sometimes prefer pleating, often have very full skirts. Fresh, clear colors are important—the lemon yellows, bright, light blues and bright-to-deep pinks.

Denims, corded cottons, piques and seersuckers are the kind of fabrics that most easily adapt themselves to these cottons. They're able to take it, able to come out of the tub asking for more. Because crinolines are scarcely a part of casual summer living, designers have devised ways of making the full skirt stand out with no help from petticoats. Sometimes this is accomplished by the crispness of the fabric or perhaps it's done by quilting.

Sundress (left) by Saba has a bodice that's elasticized for perfect fit. Skirt has controlled fullness and there's a brief jacket for cover-up against sun or breezes.

Designer Toni Owen cut into a Bates bedspread (right) to make this stiff, full skirt in an intricate straight-and-bias cut. In clear yellow or pink, it's paired with a simple sleeveless shirt that has a narrow collar.

Handsomely Styled For Women

"Dear Miss B: Will you please show some more styles for the larger figure? The others I've seen are so pretty and smart and I find them easy to put together. Thank you."

This request from a friend in Ohio is a delight to answer with the two frocks illustrated. Both are in a wide range of sizes, designed expressly for the more mature figure.

Pattern No. 8570 is a sew-rite perforated pattern in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52. Size 38, cap sleeve, 4 yards of 39-inch.

Pattern No. 8579 is a sew-rite perforated pattern in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52. Size 38, 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch; 1 yard contrast.

Household Hints

If you want cup-shaped lettuce leaves to hold a salad mixture, cut the core of the head of lettuce with a small sharp knife; then let cold water run into the opening and it will force the leaves apart. Dry the cup-shaped leaves well, of course, on a towel before chilling and using.

Here's an easy hot canape: Mix crab meat with mayonnaise, spread on small triangles of toast, and run under the broiler just until bubbly hot. For the extra-special touch, sprinkle the crab canapes with grated cheese just before broiling.

Broil chicken livers, squares of bacon, and mushrooms together for a tasty quick grill.

If you're buying cake pans choose 8-inch pans about 1 1/2 inches deep, or 9-inch pans that are about 1 1/4 inches deep. These are the sizes that most modern layer-cake recipes call for.

Gives Chapman
Another Stay

Springfield, Ill., May 13—(AP)—The Illinois supreme court today granted a stay until Dec. 1 for Curtis Chapman whose execution for murder was set May 20.

The delay will allow time for a supreme court review of a Macon county circuit court finding that the doomed man is sane.

Chapman, 20 of White Hall, and Carson Seger, 21, of Alton, were convicted in Greene county circuit court of the hitchhike slaying of Howard Heininger, a Jerseyville insurance salesman, in 1949.

Sanity hearings for both were held in Macon county (Decatur) on a change of venue. A jury found Seger insane and he was committed to Illinois Security hospital. Chapman was found to be sane.

Judge Charles E. Keller of Chapman, sitting in Macon circuit court, denied Chapman a new trial on the sanity question, and an appeal to the supreme court was taken.

TARGET—FREEDOM—Newsmap arrow, above, shows the countries from which almost 340,000 World War II expellees and refugees have immigrated to the United States. Part of the 2,000,000 persons made homeless by the war, the DP's were resettled in the U. S., under the Displaced Persons Act of 1948, which expires this year. An overwhelming majority of the DP's came from countries now behind the Iron Curtain. Farmers, private household workers, laborers and semi-skilled workers, their sponsored jobs run the gamut of the major occupational groups, according to the Displaced Persons Commission.

Two Teas Planned By Women Voters League

The annual meeting of the League of Women Voters of Morgan county was held Monday evening at the Congregational church.

The nominating committee, through Mrs. Joe Patterson Smith, offered the slate of new officers: second vice president, Mrs. F. J. Perry; treasurer, Juanita Coulter; directors to service three years, Mrs. John Agger, Mrs. McKendree Blair, Mrs. A. L. Davis and Mrs. C. H. Rammelkamp; director for one year to fill vacancy, Mrs. A. F. Fricke; chairman of nominating committee, Mrs. McKendree Blair and member of nominating committee, Mrs.

Friedrich Engelbach.

Mrs. E. G. Hilder, first vice-president, gave a summary of the year's activities as well as a graphic account of the recent national convention in Cincinnati. The highlight of the convention were the candidates' meeting, "Citizens' View of '52" sponsored by Life Magazine and N.B.C., and a panel discussion on "What Makes People Think" for which Mrs. Orville Foreman of this city was moderator.

Mrs. Hilder outlined the next two years' work.

Mrs. Hugh Beggs summarized the accomplishments of the past year, also outlining work to be done.

Mrs. Beggs exhibited booklets designed as a service to voters in various sections of the country which she has been studying for the past year. The League voted to begin work on such a handbook for this vicinity and also to continue the study of sanitary garbage collection and disposal in order to be ready with facts and figures when such a system for Jacksonville seems feasible.

Mrs. George Carpenter, voters' service chairman, gave a report of the Citizens' View of '52 forum sponsored by the local League and Life Magazine last month.

Mrs. McKendree Blair, membership chairman, reported that two teas have been planned in order to acquaint the senior girls of both local colleges with the aims of the League and to encourage them to work for good government in their home towns.

The tea for Illinois College girls is scheduled for 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Osborne Elliott, and that for MacMurray senior at 3:30 Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. S. Dyringer.

Mrs. Smith announced, as program chairman, an invitation to League members to hear Robert Merriam, called the "fighting alderman" of Chicago, who will speak at 10:45 a. m. Thursday at Jones Chapel, Illinois College on Crime and City Government.

Police said the current strike of oil workers may have influenced the theft.

ILLINOIS PILOT IN Korea Gets 1st Jet, Doesn't Fire Shot

U. S. 5th Air Force, Korea, May 13—(AP)—Capt. Robert W. McKittich, a Sabre jet pilot from 220 Garden St., Edwardsville, Ill., said he got his first Red jet today without firing a shot.

The Communist pilot outmaneuvered himself, lost control of his plane and bailed out.

It was one of four MIG-15s the Fifth Air Force credited to Sabre jet pilots in the battles.

"We were just over Prongwang when one of the MIGs broke off right in front of me," McKittich said. "I closed to around 600 feet and we were both going through some pretty violent maneuvers. Then the MIG pilot made a mistake and rakes his aircraft around in two tight turns."

"The MIG snapped over into a spin. The pilot tried to bring it out of the spin two or three times but apparently was unable to regain control. He finally elected to bail out."

Lt. Herschel D. Spitzer, Los Angeles, shot down another MIG in the same afternoon fight over the North Korean capital.

SCHOOL HEAD GIVES SPELLING PEP TALK,
"FLURS" UP ON OWN

Los Angeles, May 13—(AP)—School superintendent Alexander J. Stoddard has decided what should be done with 500,000 report cards that came back from the printer with misspellings.

He recommended to the Board of Education yesterday that some be used as office duplicates in secondary schools and the rest, corrected by hand, be issued to elementary school students.

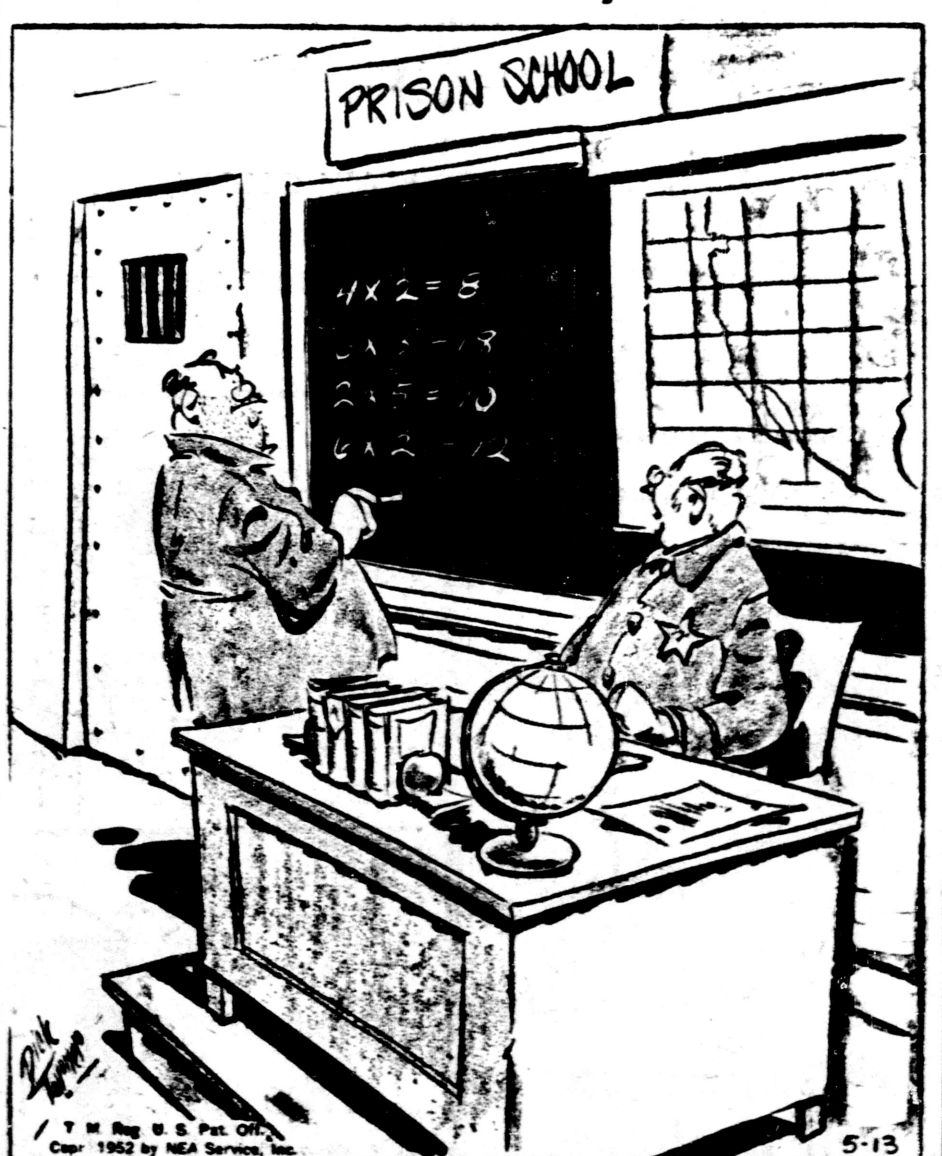

When the cards came out several weeks ago the "U" and "A" in "language" were transposed and the second "S" was missing from "semester." Seems the school system's proof reader hadn't noticed the errors.

Concluding his report to the school board, Stoddard said: "There are two words, 'language' and 'semester' that we hope no one of our generation will ever misspell again."

Stoddard apparently didn't proof-read his copy. It's "misspell," not "mispell."

CANADA BANS BOOKS BY MAE WEST, STALIN

Ottawa, May 13—(AP)—Mae West and Joseph Stalin drew mentions in a report submitted to Canada's House of Commons today. Books by each of them are barred from import into the country.

The report, by Revenue Minister J. S. McCann, named 573 books and 86 magazines and other publications on the banned list. Some of them sound like Communist propaganda, but most apparently deal with sex.

The list included Stalin's "Questions of Leninism" and Miss West's "Diamond Lil." Other authors with works on the list included Tiffany Thayer, Erskine Caldwell, James T. Farrell, John O'Hara and Donald Henderson Clarke.

SMALL BOY'S AMBITION

Remember when the ambition of many a boy was to be a policeman or an engineer, standing at the throttle of an engine thundering down the track? Now, due largely to the influence of moving pictures, radio, and television, small fry aspire to be cowboys with six-gallon hats, sporting a couple of pistols. Remember?

Our complete service is not valued in terms of dollars but in the consolation we can give to those in sorrow.

At JHS Friday

Instrumentalists from Jacksonville's four elementary schools, Franklin, Jefferson, Lafayette and Washington, will appear in a musical program at 7:30 p. m. Friday, May 16 at the Jacksonville high school. The entire program will be directed by O. A. Schutte, instructor of instrumental music in the grade schools. Participants will be pupils from grades four, five and six.

The entire fourth grade of the city schools will appear as a Tonnette Band.

A new feature in this year's Grade School Festival will be a forty piece orchestra, twenty-nine of which are stringed instruments.
This group of string players is an outgrowth of an experimental program in string classes conducted at Franklin school during the past two years. Plans are under consideration for the expansion of the string program to all grade schools in the city. The last portion of the program will be presented by the training classes on wind instruments. These pupils who will be heard in solo and ensemble numbers will form one unit for a few selections at the conclusion of the program. The music festival is open to the public.

Crimson Thinclads Fourth In Central Conference Meet

Young Driver Boasts 2 Wins Over Holland; Both Run Here May 25

When daring Bobby Grim, youthful bobby-sox idol from Indianapolis, wheels his high-powered 270 Offenhauser onto the sprawling Jacksonville Fairgrounds half-mile oval Sunday, May 25, racing fans may well sit up and take notice.

Fresh from a pair of victories over Indianapolis "500" winner Bill Holland and other speedway daredevils of equal caliber, Grim is pointing the nose of his sleek black No. 2 to the dirt track championship goal.

Both Grim and Holland have increased the power of their custom built Offy power plants. Last season they raced with 220-inch engines. This year both cars boast 270's.

Despite his youth and comparatively few years of chauffeuring experience on the dirt tracks, Grim is one to be "reckoned with," say racing's old guard.

However, no matter how "hot" a car or driver may be, there is always a field of speed and experience to challenge superiority.

Holland, of Reading, Pa., is looking forward to another crack at the young upstart on the Jacksonville strip; Jimmy Campbell, of Bates City, Mo., has entered the powerful and surprising Les King Kurtis-Kraft Offenhauser; Vern Bradley will be on hand with his Gracore from Rock Island; Italian-American ace Phil Mocco, of St. Louis, Mo., will be piloting his gold Circle-8 Offenhauser; Roy Prosser, sidelined for two weeks due to three early-season crashes through the fence, says his Offenhauser will be ready to go in Jacksonville. Prosser heads from Sun Valley, Cal.

DIRT TRACK UPSTART—Young, handsome Bobby Grim gives out with a sly grin as he sits in the cockpit of his famous City of Roses Offenhauser. Grim, fresh from two victories over many Speedway aces including the famed Bill Holland, is rapidly becoming a leading contender for championship honors this year. He'll renew his rivalry with "500" Champion Holland on the Jacksonville Fairgrounds half-mile track Sunday, May 25.

retary, says that entries are pouring in and he is expecting some 20 of the nation's top speedsters to be on hand when qualifying time trials get under way at 1:30 p.m. First race is at 2:30.

Ron Kemp Wins Firsts In 100, Discus Events

Springfield—A strong Lanphier track and field team piled up 614 points to win the annual Central conference meet held at the City Stadium here yesterday afternoon and evening.

Carlville placed second with 48 1/3 tallies. Feitshans was third with 39 5/6 and Coach Hal Wimberly's Jacksonville high school Crimsons placed fourth with 30. Clinton had 22 1/2 points and Beards-town trailed with 8 5/6.

As usual it was iron-man Ron Kemp who piled up most of the points for the Jacksonville thinclads. The husky senior won the discus and 100 yard dash, placed fourth in the shot put and paced the varsity relay team to an easy victory in that event.

Kemp's pair and the relay victory were the only firsts compiled by Coach Wimberly's state-bound track squad. Dick Barnes was second in the pole vault and Norvel Cannon and Earl Harris placed second and fourth in the 440 yard dash to account for the points.

It was strongly believed by most observers that Kemp would have been able to win the 220 yard dash and the broad jump and probably placed in the pole vault had he not been limited by conference ruling from participating in only three events and the relay.

The Summary:
Shot put—Schmidt, Lanphier; Farris, Feitshans; Habeman, Beards-town; Kemp, Jacksonville; Clemens, Lanphier. Distance 45-7.
Discus—Kemp, Jacksonville; Urbas, Feitshans; Schmidt, Lanphier; Meno, Carlville; Jackson, Carlville. Distance 125.

High jump—Leatherwood, Feitshans; Alexander, Lanphier; Schuetz, Carlville and Lucas, Beards-town (tie). Height 5-8 1/2.
Pole vault—Martin, Carlville; Barnes, Jacksonville; Froman, Lanphier and Mitchell, Carlville (tie). Height 11-2 1/2.

Broad jump—Bishop, Clinton; Harris, Lanphier; Leatherwood, Feitshans; Henry, Lanphier; Nix, Feitshans. Distance 19-6 1/2.

100 yard dash—Kemp, Jacksonville; Bishop, Clinton; Leatherwood, Feitshans; Hale, Lanphier; Hammans, Lanphier. Time 10.4.

220—Bishop, Clinton; Alexander, Lanphier; Maslauski, Lanphier; Cox, Feitshans; Haynes, Carlville. Time 24.

440—Alexander, Lanphier; Cannon, Jacksonville; Dial, Clinton; Harris, Jacksonville. Time 55.8.

High hurdles—Kasten, Carlville; Konnacher, Carlville; Clark, Lanphier; Wade, Feitshans; Jackson, Clinton. Time 16.6.

Low hurdles—Wade, Feitshans; Clark, Lanphier; Konnacher, Carlville; Harvey, Lanphier; A. Konnacher, Carlville. Time 22.
Freshman-sophomore relay—Carlville, Lanphier, Jacksonville, Feitshans, Clinton. Time 1:42.7.
Varsity relay—Jacksonville, Lanphier, Feitshans, Carlville, Beards-town. Time 1:39.9.

RACE HORSE DROPS DEAD
Toledo, O., May 13—(AP)—A 15-year-old bay mare dropped dead on the way to the post for the second race today at Fort Miami.

She was Cam Fin, a 99-to-1 shot, entered by F. Meisinger of Naperville, Ill.

Jockey O. Benitez jumped clear as she collapsed.

Money bet on Cam Fin in both the daily double and the second race was refunded.

Red Hot Senators Nick Tigers 4-3 On Bobbles

Detroit, May 13—(AP)—Two wild throws by Detroit Tiger infielders broke up a pitchers' duel tonight and gave the flash-fast Washington Senators their ninth victory in ten games, 4 to 3. Squat Conrad Marrero gave up only four hits to beat the Tigers for the second time this season.

Second baseman Jerry Priddy threw wide on Jackie Jensen's lead-off grounder in the sixth inning. He moved to second on an infield out and scored on Pete Runnels' single to break a 2-2 tie.

In the eighth inning, shortstop Johnny Lipon threw wildly on another grounder by Jensen and the former Yankee raced all the way to third. He scored on Mickey Vernon's single.

Good Golf's Easy

Are You Slicing Or Hooking Ball? Analyze And Improve Your Game

By Jackie Burke
Golf's Newest Star

Even when you are playing better than your average game, it pays to analyze each round in retrospect.

Most good golfers replay their games mentally, trying to discover where they can lop strokes from their scores.

You'll always find room for improvement.

And the best way to find out what is wrong with your game is to check back and analyze.

To analyze your round, you must remember what happened on individual shots. If you don't happen to have the photographic memory that can recall in exact detail every stroke, devise some system of scorecard symbols to help your recollection. If your memory is very untrustworthy, make notes after each hole. This takes only a few seconds.

If your putting was off—and this will be a contributing factor to an unsatisfactory score often after you might suspect—analyze just exactly what went wrong with each stroke on the greens. Were your putts consistently short? If so, either you weren't hitting the ball hard enough or your stroke wasn't smooth. Did your putts curl away from the hole or rim the cup? If so, you were drawing the club across the ball, imparting spin.

Were you slicing or hooking? If so, your basic swing was wrong, so tear it to pieces on the practice tee, starting with the grip and hands.

A simple check to be sure your right hand is in the correct position is to see that the V formed by the thumb and index finger points directly toward the right shoulder.

Did you consistently overshoot or were you short with your irons? If so, the chances are you weren't selecting the right club. You probably were either underclubbing or overclubbing.

One of the duffer's greatest faults is not getting his weight forward onto his left foot fast enough at the beginning of the downswing.

The result is that he strikes the ball with too much of his weight still back on his right leg, and this almost invariably means he will chop into the ground behind the ball.

On every shot but the putt and drive, you hit down on the ball. Particularly is this true of iron shots. The heart and soul of the iron shot is to strike the ball first and then take your divot in front of the ball. To accomplish this it is necessary to overcome the strong natural urge to get the ball up by scooping behind it.

Just remember to bang right down on the ball with a smooth deliberate motion.

You'll be surprised at the distance and accuracy you get.

V-MAN—A simple check to make sure the right hand is in the correct position is to see that the V formed by the thumb and index finger points directly toward right shoulder. (NEA)

There will be races aplenty in Jacksonville Sunday afternoon. The boat club announced yesterday that the first Midstate association race of the season will be held on the Lake Jacksonville course. The meet will be in opposition with the Motorcycle races to be held at the Morgan county fair grounds starting at 2 p.m. this Sunday. Take your choice.

The lights have gone up at the Southside softball park. Howard Arundel notified last night. He further stated that he will allow the winner of today's district baseball game to work out there Thursday night to get some idea of how the artificial lighting at Lanphier park in Springfield should be handled. Our winner will meet the Springfield champ there Friday night, you know.

Jacksonville Coach John Chapman and this corner got a long distance view of Cathedral's touted baseball team yesterday evening. We stood on the top row of the football bleachers at City Stadium and watched the Cyclones whip Feitshans in a semi-final bout. Biever Swartz, publicized Cathedral pitcher, looks plenty breezy. He had no trouble with the Flyers and expects to have less with Taylorville in the district finals tonight.

Donal Hickey of 335 East Walcott landed a 13 pound crappie in Lake Jacksonville yesterday afternoon. Is this a big one? We dunno. He challenges anyone to beat the catch, with a crappie that is.

Seems to us that we used 14 pounds for bait back in Scott county.

Crimson Nine Smashes Winchester 11-1 In 5 Frame Semi-Final Tiff

Coach Bob Kraushaar's Jacksonville high school Crimsons smashed Winchester 11-1 in five innings here yesterday afternoon to move into the finals of the local sub district baseball tournament.

The Jacks will duel Coach Vic Mosley's Franklin club for the championship at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Winner of the local sub district will meet the Springfield champion at Lanphier park Friday night. Cathedral and Taylorville are playing for the Springfield title tonight.

Bill Williams was the winning Crimson pitcher as he set the visiting Wildcats down with only one hit, a fourth inning single by Lashmet which led to the Scott county nine's only run.

Jacksonville touched Winchester twirler Don Gregory for one run in the opening inning but really teed off on the Wildcat moundman in the third and fifth frames.

The Crimsons unleashed a five run offense in the third, then scored two more in the fourth and finally clubbed six runs across in the fifth to close the competition.

Jacksonville leadoff man Bill Dickerson was the leading percentage hitter for the Crimsons collecting three hits in four trips to the plate. Crimson hitters banged out 14 safeties including a triple by Don Hazelrigg.

Kenny Wright will pitch for Jacksonville this afternoon. Coach Mosley will probably have his ace left hander Darrel Strubbe ready to go against the locals.

Chambersburg pitcher Pool pitched a no-hit baseball game against the Routt Rockets here Monday afternoon but the Jacksonville team still won the PMBC conference game by a 3-1 count.

Routt scored all three winning runs in the fourth inning. Two errors, two walks and a wild pitch did the trick.

Chambersburg touched Routt pitcher Paul Lawless for three hits but scored its lone run in the fourth frame also.

RYE LEADS ANOTHER ADVANCE IN CHICAGO

BY GEORGE MC CONVILLE
Chicago, May 13.—(P)—Rye led another advance at the Board of Trade today, during which all grains were steady to firm. The deferred contracts generally made the best showing.

Brokers said much of the advance was the result of short covering. The weekly weather indicates little moisture and there is some concern over reports of dry spots in the spring wheat country.

Some of the advance in oats was attributed to reports of frost. Brokers with eastern connections bought considerable quantities of July soybeans.

The advance in rye followed yesterday's pattern, which resulted from small production estimates.

Toward the close some profit taking developed.

Preliminary estimated receipts of grain in cars: wheat 10, corn 33, oats 24, rye 6, barley 32 and soybeans 24.

At the finish wheat was 1½ higher to 2½ lower than yesterday's close.

May $2.44½. Corn was ½ to 1½ higher May $1.82½. Oats were ½ lower to 1 higher, May 78½-1. Rye was 1½ lower to 3 cents higher, May $2.97½ and 1½ was 3 to 13 cents a hundred pounds higher, May $11.25.

New York Stock Market

New York, May 13.—(P)—Rails and chemicals provided a little life today for the stock market, but otherwise the list was narrowly mixed.

Gains in the two active divisions ran from fractions to between 1 and 2 points, but the bulk of stocks spread out over a fractional range either way.

Volume was tightly restricted to an estimated 900,000 shares. That compares with yesterday's 800,000 shares which was the lowest in around two and a half years.

The entire market appears to be sitting quietly during the arguments before the supreme court over the government's seizure of the steel industry.

Among higher stocks were American Cyanamid, Santa Fe, Republic Steel, and United Aircraft. Lower were Baltimore & Ohio, Sinclair Oil, Studebaker and Douglas Aircraft.

U. S. government securities in the over-the-counter market held steady.

Umps Won Vital Verdict When AL Hired Scotty Robb

By Harry Grayson
NEA Sports Editor
New York —(NEA)—There were unmistakable signs that major league umpires moved for their own protection when Warren Giles fined and publicly repudiated Douglas Walker Robb after his Cincinnati altercation with Eddie Stanky.

The umpires won a vital verdict when the American League promptly hired Scotty Robb.

Besides, Will Harridge needed a first-class man in blue. Feeling that he was not properly backed up by President Giles, Robb resigned as a matter of principle.

Robb happened to be one caller of pitches and plays in position to do that. He owns a profitable printing business at Cedar Grove, N. J.

Robb returned to his home late at night, "lower than the ocean's bottom," to be informed that Harridge had been calling him all day.

But the first word he had of his appointment to the American League came from Bill Summers, veteran arbiter of that circuit, who telephoned from Upton, Mass.

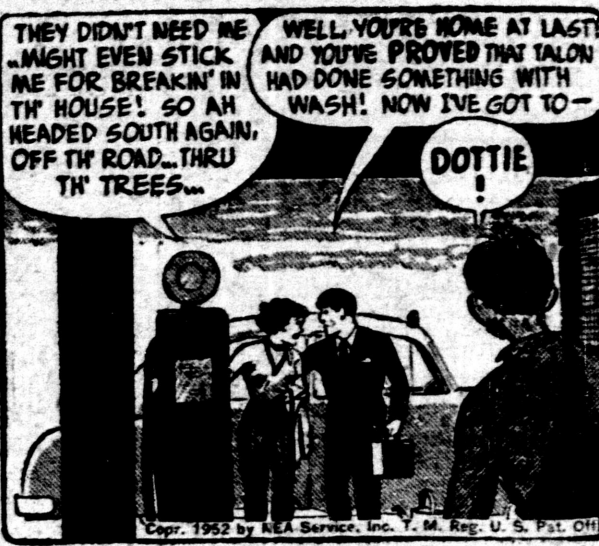

Summers said: "You bloomin' Scotchman, I hear you're finally coming to the big league. Now if Mr. Harridge doesn't contact you first, you call him in the morning."

Robb called Harridge in Chicago, and was asked how he would like to umpire in the American League.

Alias Basil Willing

By Helen McCloy
Copyright 1951 by Helen McCloy, Inc. Printed by permission of the publisher, Random House, Inc. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Jack Duggan, a private detective, borrows Dr. Basil Willing's name and dies. On the same night, a psychotic, also dies. Brinsley, nephew of Miss Shaw, and Charlotte Dean, her secretary, cannot shed light on the aged woman's death or her connection with Duggan. In pursuit of clues, Basil goes to the country club where the suspects seem to congregate. There he talks to Bert Canning, who with his wife Isolda, were at Zimmer's place the night Duggan was poisoned.

BERT CANNING snipped off the end of a cigar and lighted it. "I didn't pay attention to you at Zimmer's that evening, I had no idea that you were Basil Willing and I had no idea that anybody was going to be murdered." Canning drew on his cigar. "Do you like working with the district attorney's office?"

"Yes, or I wouldn't do it. Do you like politics?"

"I'm not in politics," Canning's face was expressionless as his voice. "I've never been able to understand why men in their senses become candidates for office."

"Perhaps they like power."

"Power?" Canning came as near to smiling as he ever did—a mere parting of the lips with a sour twist at one corner. "It's not they who have power. It's the men behind the scenes who get them elected."

"And you are one of those?"

"I'm not admitting anything." The stolid eyes shifted to Basil again. "But that's what I would be—if I wanted power."

"I was wondering if a man like you would kill for the sake of power."

Canning laughed harshly. "Murderers differ in detail. They kill for money or lust, fear or revenge. All sorts of things. But, essentially, they're all relieving tension. All seeking peace of mind."

"How can a man have peace of mind once he's killed?"

MURRAYVILLE
Murrayville—Mr. and Mrs. Byron Waters had as weekend guests Mrs. Waters' brothers and wives, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Carveth, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carveth, Rock Island, and a friend, Miss Hanna Gunther, Decatur.

Supper guests Saturday evening, honoring the birthday of Mrs. Waters, were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Spencer and daughters, Woodson, Mr. and Mrs. Beeman Hettick and son, Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Butcher and children, Scottville, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Walkington and daughter, Athensville.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Mayberry, Alexander, held a potluck dinner honoring the birthday of Mrs. Waters and Mr. Mayberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Soy held a potluck dinner Sunday. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dobson and children, Rockford, Mrs. Hazel Sexton and son, Reggie, Mrs. Frank Lonergan and children, Mrs. O. E. Boserker, Jacksonville, and Mrs. Ed Coumbes and daughter, Hazel, Murrayville.

Mrs. Irvin Henry returned to her home Friday after being a patient at Our Saviour's hospital in Jacksonville for several weeks.

Mrs. Stanley Tendick and daughter, Clo Ann, spent Thursday afternoon with Daniel Brackett, Jacksonville, route 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Summers of Winchester and Mrs. Ludella Seymour recently attended funeral services for Mrs. Lloyd Summers of Ashland.

The blubber on a large whale may be as much as 14 inches thick on some portions of the body.

BIG DAY DAWNS, BIG DOG YAWNS—Much to the chagrin of his Pekingese pal, Marc Anthony, a 17-month-old St. Bernard, was utterly unimpressed with graduation ceremonies at New York's Flag Dog School. Could be that final exam study still has Marc down in the mouth.

stop. That was the first reason I went to Dr. Zimmer." She caught her breath and paused. "Please don't tell Bert I'm a patient of Zimmer's. He thinks Zimmer is just a friend of mine. I never meant to tell you but liquor makes you indiscreet."

"Has Zimmer helped you?"

"Not very much. He says alcohol supplies all the energy I need so the food I eat is all stored up in my body as fat. But it's hard to live with Bert and not drink."

"What was your other reason for visiting Dr. Zimmer?" queried Basil. "You said that drinking was only the first reason."

A look of fuzzy calculation came into her eyes. "I don't know what I said. What I need is another drink." She rose laboriously and walked with precarious steadiness toward the bar.

After a few minutes he crossed the room to the only door that led to the rest of the house, hoping there were no stairs or other booby traps for her unsteady feet. Isolda had seemed near collapse.

He found stairs and descended in darkness. Evidently the house was built against the side of a hill with the game room on the upper level. At the bottom he groped for a switch and found one. Light blazed.

The room was empty. Some quality in its stillness disturbed Basil. He stood looking about him. It was what a modern architect calls the "living-dining area." Inside there were no partitions that reached the ceiling. There were merely built-in cupboards, or, rather, "storage spaces." No wonder Canning and Isolda were a little tired of each other. Perpetual intimacy was forced inexorably upon the inhabitants of the house.

All he heard as he stood there was the moan of a hoot owl just outside. "Room" was not the right term for this vast space. Every outside wall as a huge plate-glass window.

Then Basil heard something—as if a heavy object had fallen to the floor.

Lawrenceville Public School Head Selected Superintendent Here

Jewell Aubrey Mann, superintendent of schools at Lawrenceville, Ill., last night was selected to head the Jacksonville public school system. He will succeed Dr. Darrell R. Blodgett, superintendent of schools here since 1942, who resigned earlier this year to accept a similar position at Wheaton, Ill. In a meeting at the high school, the local board of education under the presidency of T. C. Rammelkamp, voted unanimously to accept a contract negotiated with Supt. Mann by the board's instruction committee.

The new superintendent, who will assume his duties sometime after July 1, is currently president of the Illinois Education association and has long been prominent in state-wide secondary educational circles. He has been superintendent of the Lawrenceville public schools since 1948, coming to that community from Shelbyville where he was school superintendent for twelve years. Mann was chosen for the post after the board had carefully sifted the records of several candidates over a period of several months, ever since Dr. Blodgett announced his resignation.

Following last night's action, President Rammelkamp said "we are very happy about our selection. Mr. Mann is an outstanding educator, a leader in public education in Illinois, as his presidency of the I.E.A. attests. We are confident that we have found a worthy successor to Dr. Blodgett, who achieved such a notable record during his ten year career here."

Express Pleasure

Other members of the board also expressed pleasure at last night's decision. Representative of them was J. Harry Dowland, who said "we are confident we have picked a man who will keep the Jacksonville school system one of the foremost in the state, a position it achieved under Dr. Blodgett."

In an interview with a Journal Courier reporter last week when he was in the city during his negotiations with the school board, Mr. Mann said that "if I am chosen by your board, I shall endeavor to maintain the high standards set by my predecessor. It will be a difficult assignment, but one which I shall accept with pleasure. My wife and I always have thought highly of Jacksonville as a beautiful, friendly city. I hope to enter into community life as actively as I have in Lawrenceville and Shelbyville."

He expressed regrets at "leaving my friends and associates in Lawrenceville, where we were very happy. But we expect to build a new and equally wide circle of friends here."

Mr. Mann is 50 years of age. He is a native of Norris City, Ill., where he was born Jan. 24, 1902. He was graduated from the public schools of Ridgway, Ill., and in 1928 received his B.A. degree from Evansville College, Evansville, Ind. In 1934 he was granted an M.A. degree in education at the University of Illinois. He is at present a candidate for the Ph.D. in the same field at the university.

Began Career At Carmi
Mann began his career in the public schools with a position as English and social science instructor at Carmi, Ill., where he remained from 1928 to 1934. In the latter year he accepted a position on the faculty of the high school at Shelbyville. In 1935 the Shelbyville school system advanced him to the post of high school principal. In 1936 he was advanced another notch to the superintendency, a position he held until 1948, when he went to Lawrenceville to become superintendent there.

The new superintendent's work at Shelbyville and Lawrenceville was marked by changes in the curriculum to fit modern instructional trends. Chief among them and still going on is an "across the board" curriculum development program which is being undertaken in cooperation with the University of Illinois and the state department of public instruction. Lawrenceville is one of nine public school systems throughout the state participating in this progressive revision of the public school curriculum.

In addition to his present position as president of the Illinois Education Association, Mann has been a member of the board of directors of the organization since 1948. He also has served on numerous committees of the I.E.A., including the public relations committee and the state governing committee, on both of which he served terms as chairman. Mann is also active in the National Education association, serving prominently on such committees as legislative and citizenship.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann are the parents of three children, Patricia, aged 12, John, 9, and James, 5. Mrs. Mann is the former Gladys Barrick of Urbana.

The resignation of Dr. Blodgett, present superintendent, becomes effective on July 1. It is expected that Supt. Mann will assume his duties shortly afterwards.

Coal Contract
In two other matters the board of education last night voted to leave in the hands of the building committee the problem of letting a coal supply contract for the coming school year. Several offers have been received in the bidding which was opened recently. The board will take final action on the contract at a later date.

Four new teachers had their contracts confirmed by a vote of the board last night. Bertha Barker of Morocco, Ind., was appointed librarian at the high school to succeed Miss Ainslie Moore, who is retiring; Miss Nancy Munk, Illinois College senior, will teach at Jefferson school; Miss Joan Beasley, senior at MacMurray College, was appointed to the Lafayette school faculty; and Rainer Broekel, a teacher in the Murrayville schools and a graduate of Illinois College in 1941, was appointed science teacher at David Prince.

Those unable to attend but sending gifts included Mrs. Hugh Burnett, Mrs. Mabel Whitlock, Mrs. Robert Whitlock, Mrs. Lyle Inman, Mrs. Roy Kelly, Mrs. Harriet Seymour, Mrs. Harry Mason, Mrs. Guy Alexander and Rosa Lee.

Liberian Woman Talks To AAUW Study Group

The speaker before the international relations study group of the A.A.U.W. Tuesday was Mrs. Etta Wright, undersecretary of war in Liberia. The group met at the home of Dr. and Mrs. McKendree Blair at 4 p.m.

Mrs. Wright's home is in Monrovia. She formerly served as Liberia's secretary of war. During her stay in Jacksonville she has been the guest of Mrs. Orville Foreman. She stopped here on her way to Liberia for a visit with her niece, Miss Henrietta Taylor of Monrovia, a student at MacMurray College.

The speaker has been attending the quadrennial Methodist conference at San Francisco, Calif., as delegate from her homeland.

She was introduced by Mrs. Sherwood Eddy, chairman of the study group.

Liberia became a sovereign republic in 1847, she began, and its first problems concerned slave trade carried on by other nations, and native tribes inclined to hostilities by European countries.

Becomes Christian Land

Now it is a Christian nation, she said. Missionaries of all Christian denominations are working there, subsidized by the government. Native tribes are civilized and take part in all phases of government, in social life and education.

The standard of living has been raised, transportation facilities improved. There are 2,000 miles of good paved roads, the speaker stated.

Universal suffrage, she told the audience, is granted to the people regardless of considerations such as their sex or tribe. Representatives are elected from all tribal nations. There are two in the Senate, 14 in the House of Representatives.

Women serve in the government, she said, as secretary of public instruction, secretary of the Senate and of war, and in civil service. Educational opportunities have improved. In the past five years there has been a 300 per cent increase in school enrollment.

University Founded

A national university was established 14 months ago. Its president is a man from the United States. Every county and province has elementary and secondary schools. Scholarships, the speaker stated, are granted for study in the United States.

Each of about 20 native tribes has its own language. But through a literary campaign the past five years, Mrs. Wright said, all natives are learning English.

Under the public health program hospitals have been built, and technical personnel and equipment have been supplied through the Point Four program.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Fannie Anderson poured at the decorated table. Mrs. Blair, the hostess, was assisted by Miss Marjorie Copeland, Mrs. John Agger and Mrs. Paul Davidmeyer.

Special guests at the meeting were Miss Taylor, the speaker's niece, and Miss Margaret Norvell, also a MacMurray student.

Scott Forum Hears Paper On Project Of Swimming Pool

Winchester—Stanley R. Faris presented the paper at the meeting of chapter No. 6 of the Scott County Forum held Monday evening, on the subject of "A Municipal Project." The paper discussed the construction and maintenance of municipal swimming pools and outlined the problems which arise concerning their operation.

The paper stated that for a community the size of Winchester a swimming pool 24 by 60 feet is considered adequate. Faris stated that the cost of a swimming pool of this size with the water purification machinery and bath house facilities would probably be in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Faris gathered the data for his paper in connection with his appointment as chairman of a committee of the Winchester Kiwanis club to survey the possibilities of constructing a swimming pool in Winchester.

A round table discussion followed the reading of the paper and refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Faris.

Fritz Haskell, who has been secretary of the Forum almost since its organization, stated that the 20th anniversary of the Forum will be observed at the September meeting. The June meeting of the organization will be at the home of Rev. F. V. Wright. Rev. John Scott will furnish the paper.

Civil Rights Federal Duty, Truman Says

Gives Ike Dig About Troop Segregation

Washington, June 13—(AP)—President Truman called anew today for a civil rights program backed by "the full force and power of the federal government," and took what seemed to be a thinly-veiled dig at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Truman said that experience has proved to be nonsense a contention by "some of our greatest generals" that white and Negro troops could not be fully integrated in the armed forces.

Four years ago, in testimony to a Senate committee, Eisenhower said he favored organizing Negroes in units of no larger than platoon size—40 to 50 men.

Eisenhower, however, spoke out then against complete segregation in the army, and he said yesterday that after the war he had fought for integration of Negroes, but that the general staff didn't pay much attention.

In an address to a graduation day audience at Howard University, a Negro institution, Truman spoke out vigorously against those in both parties who favor either reliance on persuasion or on the states, rather than federal legislation, to combat racial problems.

"I am not one of those who feel that we can leave these matters up to the states alone, or that we can rely solely on the efforts of men of good will," he said.

Harrison Agrees With Truman
His call for all-out federal legislation was at variance with the words of many of the presidential aspirants in both parties. Of those who have substantial numbers of delegate votes, only Democrat W. Averell Harriman has come out strongly for Truman's civil rights program.

Scorning the leave-it-to-the-states approach, Truman declared: "Our federal government must live up to the ideals professed in our Declaration of Independence and the duties imposed upon it by our constitution."

Once again, the president called on Congress to enact the full civil rights program he set for in 1948—including a Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) with power to crack down on discrimination in the hiring and firing of Negroes and other minorities.

It was when he turned to the subject of integrating whites and Negroes in the armed forces that Truman took what appeared to be a swipe at Eisenhower.

"Some of our greatest generals have said that our forces had to have segregated units," the president said. "But our experience has proved that to be nonsense."

In New York yesterday, Eisenhower told a group of New Jersey Republicans on the subject of Negro troops in the army:

"During the war, they volunteered for frontline duty. We were desperately short of men at one point and 2,400 of them volunteered from service units. They fought with (Gen.) George Patton's army and fought brilliantly."

"After the war," Eisenhower continued, "I fought for integration of them in the army, but as you probably know, the general staff doesn't pay much attention to an ex-chief."

State Department Reporter For Tass News Retires

Washington, June 13—(AP)—Laurence Todd, State Department reporter for Russia's Tass News Agency, cleaned off his desk and moved into retirement today. He is 69 years old.

Todd has been on occasion a controversial figure. The freedom which he and other Tass reporters have had in covering the State Department, Congress and other government agencies has been contrasted by editors and Congress members with the rigid restrictions imposed on American correspondents operating in Moscow.

Taft Meets Delegates In Delaware

Wilmington, Del., June 13—(AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft—conferring with Delaware's 12-member GOP convention delegation—indicated today he expects to run against President Truman in next November's general election.

Taft came to Wilmington today personally to sound out the manner in which the Delaware delegation will vote at the Chicago convention next month.

Eleven of the State's 12 delegates either rode down to Wilmington from New York with him or were waiting at the elm-shaded farm estate of former U. S. Sen. C. Douglas Buck. One delegate, John P. Hopkins, Sr., was unable to attend because of illness. Hopkins is an avowed supporter of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

While Taft was talking political shop with the Delaware group amid the quiet surroundings of Buck's farm, Buena Vista, Eisenhower was shaking hands with the bulk of the 70-member Pennsylvania delegation on his farm near the historic battlefield at Gettysburg, Pa. in the hubbub of a country fair-like atmosphere.

Taft's visit to Delaware had no apparent immediate effect on the convention convictions of the state's delegates.

Prior to the closed door Taft's delegation session in the panelled study of Buena Vista, the delegation's chairman Clair J. Killoran said he expected his group to go to Chicago with seven votes for Eisenhower, two for Taft and three uncommitted, possibly eight for Eisenhower and four for Taft. After the meeting with Taft—lasting nearly an hour—he said he could see no reason to change his estimate.

The leader of the pro-Taft group in the delegation, Sen. Thomas P. G. Ryan, also said he could see no change in his pre-meeting lineup of seven votes for the Ohio senator and five for Eisenhower.

The latest Associated Press poll of the delegation showed six for Taft, four for Eisenhower and two uncommitted.

Taft, displaying a confident smile, refused comment on reports published today that he would enter the convention balloting with 588 votes on the first ballot.

Asked whether he believed he would have enough votes to win the nomination on the first ballot, Taft said "I won't say that, but I'll have enough to win the nomination."

Abandon Search For 10 On B-29 Ditched In Ocean

Honolulu, June 13—(AP)—The Navy and Air Force today abandoned the search for 10 crewmen aboard a Japan-based B-29 Superfortress which was ditched in the sea 125 miles west of Kwajalein yesterday.

Only the pilot, who suffered a broken leg, was rescued from the shark-infested waters. He was picked up by a Navy patrol craft shortly before dark and returned to Kwajalein today.

Navy patrol craft and an air force crash boat searched throughout the night and two B-29s made a final circling air search this morning.

The superfort made a forced landing in the Pacific in full view of two companion B-29s.

The three superforts had taken off from Kwajalein for Guam when two engines went dead on the ill-fated bomber.

The pilot said the plane broke up and sank to quickly that only one other man got out of the plane. He said this man sank before he could reach him.

One of the companion B-29s remained and circled the area. Four hours after the plane was ditched a Navy patrol craft picked up the pilot, who had made it to a life raft.

The search craft could find only debris on the water.

PLANE JOINS SEARCH FOR ILLINOIS MAN, WIFE
Denver, June 13—(AP)—An SA16 rescue plane from Flight D of the Fourth Air Rescue Squadron at Lowry Air Force Base here today joined the search for a Chicago man and his wife, missing on a flight from Albert Lea, Minn., to Danville, Ill. The plane left here at 1:30 p.m. (CDT) today to search the area between Albert Lea and Danville.

East Germany Becoming Police State

Berlin, June 13—(AP)—Communist police spread through East Germany today.

Sweeping new measures announced by the Communists themselves and reports filtering into West Berlin combined to show the eastern "Democratic Republic" is fast becoming a complete police state.

Control over the lives of 18,000,000 East Germans is being concentrated in the ministry of state security, which has an undisclosed number of secret agents and controls 60,000 armed People's Police.

Former Gen. Wilhelm Zaisser, head of this ministry, gained considerable new powers in a government decree published last night. This decree empowers him to apply throughout all East Germany, including that around Berlin, the same measures he has been using to establish a warlike "security zone" along the East-West German border.

Reports published in the West Berlin press said Zaisser is exercising these powers ruthlessly.

The dispatches said families suspected of being "politically untrustworthy" are being forced from their border area homes overnight and deported eastward for resettlement.

A pitched battle between 1,000 East Germans and a Peoples' policemen detachment over such a case was reported by West German border police.

Arrest of two families suspected of being "politically untrustworthy" aroused the population of the little border town of Kaltendorf, in Thuringia.

They attacked the arresting policemen and rescued the prisoners. While the policemen went for reinforcements, a local official started haranguing the villagers with a pro-Communist speech. They shouted him down.

The police returned with 300 reinforcements and charged the crowd. In the ensuing fight, many were reported wounded and several arrested. The two families originally arrested were recovered by the police and taken to a state security office in Bad Salzuflen.

Find 3,500 Weapons In Compound 76 On Kojima Island

Seoul, Saturday, June 14—(AP)—The U. S. Eighth Army reported today that search of compound 76 on Kojima Island where allied soldiers cleared out rebellious prisoners after a 24-hour battle Tuesday, yielded a stock of more than 8,500 Communist weapons.

An Army release itemized the bag as "3,000 spears, 1,000 gasoline grenades, 4,500 knives, plus an undetermined number of clubs, hatchets, hammers and barbed wire flails. The spears were fashioned from tent poles."

It said a tunnel was found under construction leading from compound 76 toward compound 77. Excavation also had been started on a tunnel in 77 to meet with 76.

The Army information section further disclosed that connecting entrenchments had been constructed around each hut in 76, around the sandy port (gate) and inside the inner fence.

The Army recapitulation said "an undetermined number" of the 38 Communist prisoners of war who died were killed by fellow prisoners. Reports from Kojima yesterday said a 39th prisoner had died.

One American paratrooper was killed as the result of a spear wound. Seven others were wounded but returned to duty almost immediately while six other wounded are still hospitalized.

Kill Towboat Cook In Mysterious Shooting On River

Cairo, Ill., June 13—(AP)—Police were without a suspect tonight in the mysterious fatal shooting of a tow boat cook as the vessel passed Cairo, southbound in the Mississippi river.

Police Chief Earl Shepherd said Orren Fee, 44, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., was shot by someone standing on the bank of the river Thursday evening.

One man, found on the river shore with a gun, was released after questioning when bullets in his weapon did not match one found in Fee's hand.

The towboat John Luchow turned into the Ohio river and docked at Cairo after the shooting. It had been enroute to Memphis.

No one has reported hearing a shot or seeing the marksman.

The boat had two other men aboard, the pilot and captain, Tony Heuring, and the engineer, Robert Miskell, both also of Cape Girardeau.

RUSSIA FIRST CLAIMS WRONG
London, June 13—(AP)—Moscow radio claimed tonight that a Russian invented the first harvesting machine but apparently forgot to check its dates.

It said Russia's A. V. Vlasenko built his reaper in 1861; America's Cyrus H. McCormick has been credited generally with inventing the first harvester in 1831.

British, Iranian Oil Showdown Nears As Tanker Sails To Italy

Rome, June 13—(AP)—A little tanker full of cut-rate Iranian oil steamed defiantly tonight toward European markets and a showdown with the British.

Two more tankers were reported loading in the Iranian refinery and oil port city of Abadan or already on the high seas.

Italian middlemen announced they had contracted for 400,000 tons of Iranian oil—believed to be the first bulk sales since Iran nationalized Iranian holdings of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil company a year ago.

The British Iranian dispute, which now is before the International Court of Justice at The Hague, the Netherlands, has resulted in the virtual shutdown of the Abadan refineries. Iran has challenged the competence of the court to rule on British charges that the billion-dollar nationalization deal violated international law.

The court now is being asked to decide on its competence to rule in the case.

Pleading the British case at today's hearing in The Hague was Attorney General Sir Lionel Heald. He said the court was competent to judge the dispute because British operations in Iran had been permitted through an international treaty signed in 1933 between the two countries. Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadeq had argued at the opening of the hearing that the agreement was a private affair between his country and the Anglo-Iranian Oil company. The British government owns 51 per cent of Anglo-Iranian.

Last December, Anglo-Iranian threatened legal action against any firm dealing with the Iranian National Oil company. At the same time, Britain warned Iran not to try to peddle her oil until the issue was settled by the World Court.

Even then, Iran defiantly declared that if the old Anglo-Iranian customers wouldn't buy from her she would seek markets elsewhere.

British Charge Man Violates Official Secrets
London, June 13—(AP)—Police tonight arrested William Marshall, a British foreign office wireless operator whose job had included sending code messages from the Moscow embassy, and charged him with violating the official secrets act.

The act is designed to protect Britain's security.

Marshall, 24, was arrested at his London home. He will appear before a magistrate at 9 a.m. (4 a.m. EST) tomorrow.

He joined the foreign office staff in November, 1948, and returned only last December from a year's assignment in the British embassy in Moscow.

His job included the sending and receiving of coded messages between the embassy and the London foreign office.

A foreign office spokesman refused to comment "while the case is under investigation."

The arrest of Marshall was the fifth post-war case involving a possible breach in Britain's security.

Dr. Alan Nunn May, a British expert on atomic theory, was sentenced to 10 years in prison in 1946 on a charge of violating the official secrets act.

Dr. Klaus Emil Fuchs, German-born former Communist, who confessed giving away to Russia the secret of the atomic bomb after working at Los Alamos in the United States and at Britain's Harwell laboratories, was sentenced to 14 years in prison in 1950.

Still a mystery is the whereabouts of two British diplomats, Donald Maclean, head of the foreign office American department, and Guy Burgess, a former Washington embassy official, who took an excursion boat for France together a year ago and never showed up again.

Also missing is Prof. Bruno Pontecorvo, Italian-born atomic scientist, who disappeared while on a vacation in Europe in October, 1950. His trail disappeared in Finland next door to Russia.

Peiping Broadcasts Article Said Written By AP Photographer

San Francisco, June 13—(AP)—The Communist Peiping radio today broadcast what it said was an article by Associated Press photographer Frank (Pappy) Noel saying he hoped a new summer uniform issued at a North Korean prison camp will be his "going-home duds."

Noel was captured by the Chinese Communists Dec. 1, 1950, while covering the war in Korea.

The Peiping broadcast heard by the Associated Press in San Francisco quoted Noel as saying prisoners are allowed to butcher hogs, while beef, mutton and chickens are shipped to the prison camp from China.

Rice is the main dish for breakfast, while flour in some form, usually steamed bread, with meat, potatoes and cabbage were described as mainstays at night. Lunch normally consists of soybean milk and vegetable soup.

Noel was quoted as saying a drinkable substitute for coffee was made by roasting barley.

The broadcast did not say why or for whom Noel wrote the article, which included the following excerpt: "All American and British national and religious holidays are observed and extra rations of meat, flour and potatoes are passed out by the Chinese quartermaster. Occasionally candy and apples are thrown in for good measure."

"Turkish troops celebrate their Mohammedan holidays and are issued lamb, mutton or chicken whenever the menu calls for pork."

"A Saturday morning inspection is carried out here the same as in military camps back home. Usually at two-week intervals a medical team gives rooms and bedding a good going over with DDT."

"New arrivals are isolated until they have been through a medical examination, bathed and issued new clothing and bedding."

"All POWs have had regular inoculations against typhoid, tetanus and cholera."

Noel won world-wide recognition for his exclusive first pictures taken inside Communist prison camps early this year. He used a camera sent to him by AP correspondents in Korea.

Murray Calls Strike 'Political Football'

Ike Talks To Delegates In Gettysburg

By Reiman Morin

Gettysburg, Pa., June 13—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower stood on the back porch of his brick farmhouse near Gettysburg today and made his big effort to win the support of Pennsylvania's vitally important delegation to the Republican presidential nominating convention.

How well he succeeded was a matter of complete disagreement among the 300-odd people who heard him.

Gov. John S. Fine said afterward he thought "maybe two or three at the most" delegates might have been won over by Eisenhower. The governor, personally, has not decided about which candidate he will support for the GOP presidential nomination.

National committeeman G. Mason Owlett expressed the opinion that the general did not gain any support today. Owlett is generally thought to be supporting Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio).

Pennsylvania's 70-vote delegation is in a strategic position to affect the GOP nomination and its leaders and delegates have been ardently wooed by both the Taft and Eisenhower organizations.

The Associated Press poll of delegates before today indicated 20 delegates favoring Eisenhower, 18 backing Taft and 32 awaiting word from the governor—who reiterated today that a decision probably will not be taken until just before the convention opens July 7.

The whole delegation was invited to meet Eisenhower on his farm and 54 delegates and 60 alternates responded.

He drew a roar of applause and laughter when he answered a question from a delegate who said he (the delegate) could not agree with policies pursued by the "top personnel of the state department." He asked if Eisenhower would make changes in these offices.

"So far as I know," Eisenhower replied, "the top personnel is all from the other party. When I say need a new administration I mean in all its parts."

He told the delegates he was against socialized medicine or any form of government control over doctors and hospitals. He repeated that, in general, he believes the Taft-Hartley act is a good one but that he has been told it needs some amendments.

Eisenhower indicated in a long and comprehensive summary of the pros and cons that he favors universal military training. But he said it was impossible as long as the Selective Service (draft) system is in use.

Russian Embassy Rotates Gromyko To Britain

London, June 13—(AP)—Russia, in a drastic and puzzling diplomatic rotation program, announced tonight the new Soviet ambassador to Britain is Andrei A. Gromyko, No. 1 deputy foreign minister and former walkout man at the United Nations.

Whether it means a demotion for the one-time boy wonder of Soviet diplomacy was a moot question.

In a terse broadcast heard in London, Russia also announced Georgi Zarubin, who was withdrawn from Washington, is the new ambassador to the United States.

The announcements followed the assignment Thursday night of Alexander Panyushkin withdrawn from Washington, as new ambassador to Red China.

The broadcast tonight merely announced the changes and said the supreme council of the U.S.S.R. had relieved Gromyko of his duties as deputy foreign minister. No mention was made on who succeeds him in the foreign office.

Zarubin and Gromyko presumably know more about the western world than any other officials in the Russian foreign service. Panyushkin, with similar western experience, also is an old Russian China hand in diplomacy.

The previous ambassador to Peiping, Gen. Nikolai Roschin, is an expert on China alone, with no known western experience such as Panyushkin and the other two have had.

No date was mentioned for their taking over the embassies in Washington, London and Peiping.

The poker-faced Gromyko, most experienced of the three in dealings with the west, previously served in Washington and at the United Nations as the Russian chief delegate.

The big surprise of the broadcast heard in London was Gromyko's new job. In the Soviet pattern of diplomacy and surprises his departure from chief assistant to Foreign Minister Andrei V. Vishinsky in Moscow does not necessarily mean the London post is a demotion.

It appeared rather to be part of a major rotation scheme in the top Soviet embassy posts over the world.

I'M ALWAYS CAREFUL BUT THINGS HAPPEN

Seattle, June 13—(AP)—It was the same old story again today for 7-year-old Bruce Treadwell. Things just happened to him. This time it's a broken right leg. He fell from a swing in a neighbor's yard.

Before that he: Swallowed a live goldfish when he was a year old. Upset tummy. Gnawed on a "live" electric cord when he was four. Badly burned mouth.

Bumped his head a year ago on a children's merry-go-round. Twenty-five stitches.

Fell off a fence. Arm broken in four places.

Bruce, one of four children of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Treadwell, was philosophical about it all at the hospital. Just one of those things. When asked if he was going to be more careful from now on, he replied indignantly:

"I'm always careful."

Storms, Winds Hit Midwest, Kill Two In Wisconsin

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms and gusty winds that ranged up to 50 miles an hour raked a large section of the Midwest Friday.

The violent wind killed two persons in Wisconsin. Mrs. Anna Usadel, 70, of Wausau and Mrs. Henry Beisner, 60, of Dorchester, perished in the wreckage of farm buildings.

Virtually all communications were down in the area surrounding Monroe in southwestern Wisconsin. At least 11 barns were blown down in the Chippewa Falls region.

Farm animals were killed in many sections, some by lightning in the fields and others in barns that collapsed.

Chicago also was lashed. Many trees and utility lines were snapped off. The fire department received a dozen reports of buildings struck by lightning.

The weather bureau in Chicago reported the storm area extended from southeastern Minnesota to northern Illinois.

Most of the southern and great plains states simmered in a humid June heat wave, but a surge of cool air from the northwest Pacific drove the mercury to record lows in some western areas.

Some Friday afternoon temperatures on the high side included: Hill City, Kans., 102; Grand Island, Neb., 100; Kansas City, 98; St. Louis 97; Memphis, 96; Denver and New Orleans, 92.

Sixteen persons were treated for heat exhaustion in St. Louis, sweltering in the hottest June weather since 1914. The mercury climbed into the 90s Friday for the ninth straight day, equalling the record for the first half of June set in 1914.

The mercury went over the 100 degree mark in parts of Kansas and Colorado.

In contrast, the early morning temperature dropped to a below freezing 31 degrees at Missoula, Mont., and to a crisp 33 at Ellensburg, Wash.—the coldest June weather ever recorded in either community.

Stalemate Bogs Down Korea Peace Negotiations

Munsan, Korea, Saturday, June 14—(AP)—Communist truce negotiations face the prospect of another temporary Allied walkout today unless they curb their propaganda, the chief U. N. negotiator indicated Friday.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., reluctantly agreed to return to Panmunjom at 11 a.m. today (9 p.m. CDT).

Harrison told newsmen Friday the U. N. delegation held a whispered conference inside the armistice tent to decide "whether it was worthwhile to come back tomorrow."

The Reds used the 16-minute no progress session for their usual propaganda barrage. But a U. N. spokesman said for the second straight day North Korean Gen. Nam Il used courteous language, possibly mindful of hints and U. N. negotiators might walk out again.

On June 7 the Allies declared a three-day recess and walked out without waiting for Communist reply. Harrison said he would not listen to Communist "drive" every day.

The problem of how to exchange prisoners of war has deadlocked the armistice talks for weeks. The U. N. command refuses to repatriate some 100,000 prisoners who said they would forcibly return to the Communists. The Reds want all prisoners back.

Says Owners Should Accept WSB Counsel

Pittsburgh, June 13—(AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers asked Congress today to make the steel industry accept recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board to end the steel strike.

President Philip Murray in a statement at the conclusion of a day-long strike strategy session with his top policy-makers promised union help in producing vital military steel.

The statement also said the USW is ready to bargain collectively but will never "surrender our just demands."

The statement added: "We, however, believe it to be essential that the Congress of the United States require the steel industry to manifest its loyalty to our country by adhering to the requirements of the wage stabilization board."

Earlier, Murray said the strike has become a political football. In his opening address to USW governing bodies he listed four issues—the union shop among them—which he said were the main stumbling blocks holding up settlement.

Murray at a news conference following the session accused the industry of failing to expand facilities needed to produce ammunition. He said a critical shortage exists in artillery and other types of ammunition.

Truman Meets With Cabinet
In Washington President Truman met with his cabinet to discuss the 12-day old crippling steel strike but officials said nothing was decided.

The USW statement declared the union was forced to strike "by a profit hungry industry" and vowed to stay out "until our cause is won."

Steel leaders had no comment on the union's statement.

Murray said "a great deal of sentiment was expressed" at the union meeting against possible use of the Taft-Hartley Act in the controversy.

Big Steel Forms Coalition
He said the big steel companies had formed what he called a coalition to keep the industry united.

"I don't know if the smaller companies can hold out against the coalition," Murray said.

Murray said "there lies absolute disagreement" on four points.

They included management's insistence on a contract clause defining its rights. Murray said the clause sought would allow steel firms to institute speed-ups against the workers.

A second point was that "all questions bearing upon seniority should be satisfactorily resolved." The third was "that incentive rates should be resolved to the satisfaction of the United States Steel Corporation before a contract could be consummated."

Murray listed the union shop as the fourth point.

LOYAL TO THE LAND
J. C. Penney's fine gift of a world-famous dairy herd and other assets valued at three-quarters of a million dollars to the University of Missouri at Columbia, is proof again that big men seldom forget their early surroundings, and that their love of boyhood scenes grows with the years. Mr. Penney, a multi-millionaire, has never lost interest in Missouri or agriculture even though his mercantile career has carried him to fame and fortune.

The gift was announced by President Frederick A. Middlebush of the University, who said Mr. Penney, a native of Hamilton, Mo., has given the school all the property, endowment, and assets of the Foremost Guernsey Association, Inc., of New York. This association was founded by Mr. Penney and was recently dissolved by the New York courts at his request, to permit transfer of title to the university.

Included in the assets is a herd of some 250 head of cattle, known throughout the agricultural world as one of the finest purebred herds in existence. The herd will be taken to Missouri and kept intact by the University's College of Agriculture.

Farm land, buildings and equipment at Hopewell Junction, N.Y., where the herd has been developed, also becomes the property of the university along with cash, stocks, and bonds included in the Foremost Association's assets.

"Missouri is my native state," Mr. Penney said in discussing the gift, "and I am proud of its College of Agriculture."

Mr. Penney is considered unique among America's millionaire farm owners in that he insists that each of his farms operate on a strictly business basis, pay its own way and show a profit, but at the same time make constant improvements and institute modern methods of better farming. His holdings number seven farms in Missouri, the largest of which includes his birthplace near Hamilton in its 2,000 acres.

IN DELICATE BALANCE

Barring certain contingencies, the price outlook in the immediate future is for neither a sharp rise nor a sharp decline in the general level, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Consumer demand is relatively high, "though not what might be expected from current income levels" and a reasonable balance between supply and demand is likely for the rest of the year. But the report's most arresting statement is its final one:

"But, as in the last year, the balance between inflationary and deflationary forces is a delicate one always dependent, among other factors, upon the uncertainties of the brittle international situation."

These words would appear to be weighted with a warning that in the present state of affairs deflation is as much a possibility as inflation. If this is what was meant, it conflicts with the preponderant views expressed at recent conferences of two groups of economists, that continuing inflation for the intermediate period was unavoidable.

But whether the experts agree or disagree, the public should avoid being led into misinterpreting effects as causes. Real inflation presupposes a superabundance of money and credit and a shortage of goods due to lack of productive capacity. Then, inevitably, the tendency is to exchange cash for commodities, and prices skyrocket.

This picture of conditions is absent from current official reports. The money supply is high, but there has been no considerable increase recently. Reflecting waning inflationary pressures, the Federal Reserve Board, last month, suspended the voluntary credit restraint program by the banks and likewise the regulation of consumer installment credit. Neither are consumers rushing to get rid of cash, the Commerce Department reporting that "persistent cautious buying was reflected in less than a seasonal increase in orders placed with manufacturers."

This is all presently encouraging. Yet inherent in the situation is the "delicate balance" between inflation and deflation at a time of high taxes and high prices. Should these two factors draw down the money supply far enough, a heavy brake on purchasing would likely follow with sellers holding large inventories.

Then the worry would not be about inflation, but deflation, in spite of the government's heavy spending. But, as the Reserve Bank says reassuringly, this is only what could happen and not that there is any prospect of it at this stage.

Father's Day Tip To The Ladies: Give Dad Back His Bathroom

New York. (AP)—A lot of late-shopping ladies are feverishly asking themselves:

"What can I get my husband for Father's Day?"

"And they tear through a department store like a two-legged tornado in quest of a suitable necktie, bathrobe, or pair of slippers."

If the average father were only what his womenfolk gave him, that's how he'd go to work—clad only in a necktie, a bathrobe, and new slippers.

Naturally a fellow appreciates these things. Who ever had enough haberdashery?

But, ladies, along with that necktie you present your husband this Sunday, why not hand him a real surprise? Why not give him back his bathroom?

There is no gift a man would rather have on Father's Day than a bathroom—his very own bathroom.

I have never met a married man who felt he had a bathroom he could honestly call his own, except when the rest of the family was away on vacation.

The chances are that if they designed a house that was all plumbing except for the kitchen, father still wouldn't have that bathroom. Here's what happens: A family in modest circumstances makes some money and builds a home that has a bathroom for every member—and one left over for the guests.

"This is your bathroom, dear," Mama tells papa. He can't believe it. After all these years, his secret dream has come true. No more people pounding on the door and calling "buddy up" every time he starts to shave! How can life hold greater luxury?

It may truly be his bathroom for a week or a month. But then he comes home one day and finds the maid's dress hanging there. The next day it rains and he returns to find a drying umbrella in his bathtub.

Soon he learns his son has turned the room into a public library, his daughter wants to dry her hair there, and mother has hung up all her clothes in it while she cleans out a closet.

A friend of mine, vexed sorely by this problem, made an inventory of the situation.

"I went into my wife's bathroom and counted 71 different articles in it," he said. "Then I went into what is supposed to be my own bathroom and counted 35 articles, of which exactly six belonged to me. The rest were my wife's."

That's what every man wants, ladies—a bathroom of his own.

Hollywood—(NEA)—Exclusively Yours: Turn on the air conditioning in the theaters, boys—Samia Gamal, the Egyptian dancer with the educated, undulating tummy is saying she's close to signing for her first Hollywood starring movie.

"Ees a part like Maria Montez and Yvonne de Carlo plays," she said at Ciro's where she's giving movie queens an idea of what can be done with midriff muscles.

Could Samia think of any Hollywood dancer girls who should be belly-dancing right now for moviegoers?

Rita Hayworth," said Samia. "She great fan of mine. Rita. She special ask me to dance at party early on Cairo. For Rita, I don't move feet. Just hips. Rita, she appreciate thees very much."

Lex Barker is now saying that the reconciliation depends upon Arlene Dahl. He doesn't want a divorce.

Warner's, MGM and RKO all have come up at the same time with the same idea—out Alan Ladd in a comedy. He's never done a laugh-getter.

Hard Pillow To Swallow
The British censors read the screenplay of "The Hard Pillow" and turned as white as the cliffs of Dover.

So Cesar Romero won't be starring in the picture for the Nassau brothers in London unless the script is laundered.

Dan Evans spotted it on a broken-down jalopy in Hollywood: A sign on the windshield reading: "He Likes Me."

Author Daphne Du Maurier is involved in the scuffle which touched off Director George Cukor's withdrawal from Fox's upcoming "My Cousin Rachel."

The famous British novelist met with Cukor in London, told him that she disapproved of liberties taken in Nunnally Johnson's screenplay version of her book, and asked him to convey her wishes for revisions to the studio.

It can also be told that Vivien Leigh, loathe to leave her Sir Laurence Olivier, agreed to play Rachel if Fox would produce the picture in London. This the studio refused to do.

Jane Russell asked for a strong, meaty drama, and got a "Yes" answer. She'll be the feminine star of RKO's "Split Second," a shocker about two criminals who bury their loot, serve a prison sentence then discover that the ground in which their fortune is hidden is occupied by an atomic bomb project.

The story line of the John Wayne-Nancy Olson co-starrer, "Big Jim McLain," currently being filmed in Honolulu with Bob Fellers as producer, has to do with communist activities in the Hawaiian Islands. Very explosive.

Remember the Mauch Twins who hit child stardom in the "Penrod" films back in 1937? They're now appearing in film cutters at Warners, the studio where they once wore the royal star robes.

It's too secret, but both Beatrice Lillie and Josephine Baker have been approached by Fox to play themselves in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." The two stars were reigning Paris favorites in the '20s when Anita Loos' high-powered blonde heroine crossed the big pond. Dick and Mary Sale have written Joe and Bea into the script for big specialty numbers.

Pinky Tomlin, who made "The Object of My Affections" famous, is ditching his singing career for movie character roles. He plays a barber in "The Story of Will Rogers" and a postman with Bob Mitchell and Jean Simmons in "Beautiful but Dangerous."

Judy Canova was having her hair done when a woman in the adjacent booth told her hairdresser that her husband had just had an appendectomy.

"But didn't he have his appendix removed two years ago?" asked the hairdresser. "I never heard of two appendices."

"Well," came the woman's reply. "I hope you have heard of two husbands!"

Producer Sammy Fuller will star Gene Evans in "Verboten"—to be filmed in the American zone of Germany late this year. Story has a "Man Without a Country" twist.

★ DR. JORDAN ANSWERS ★
Before Measures Are Taken to Relieve Leg Cramps, Have Tests and X-Ray Studies Made
BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service
An interesting question is raised in today's first letter, although a completely satisfactory answer cannot as yet be given because of lack of complete knowledge.
Q—Please advise the cause (and possible cure) of cramps in the legs at night. When this happens, what should one do at the time? M.P.
A—Cramps in the lower extremities occurring during bed rest and awakening the victim are rather common. They usually take the form of muscular spasm with severe discomfort.
Apparently they are related in most cases to poor blood circulation in the legs, although the available supply of sugar and calcium in the blood also play a part. Many people report that when they get such cramps they must get out of bed and walk around for a few minutes, after which the pain disappears.
Since the ultimate cause of poor local circulation or of lowered sugar or calcium levels in the blood often is not invariably too satisfactory. In general, all persons who are troubled in this manner should have their circulation studied, X-ray films taken, and tests made of the blood sugar and blood calcium.
After these tests have been taken it may be possible to give someone who suffers from cramps in the legs at night advice in the form of diet, medicine or other measures which will bring at least some degree of relief.
Q—Please write something about aplastic anemia.
A—This is a form of anemia in which there is a deficiency of red blood cell formation, among other things, associated with decreased formation of cells in the bone marrow. It may result from several different causes and the treatment therefore can be determined only after the particular cause has been found.
Q—Is it safe to have bunions removed?
A—If bunions do not respond to conservative measures such as careful shoeing, surgery may be advisable and is often quite successful.
Q—Is there any danger in giving a seven-year-old boy male hormone shots for undescended testis?
Mrs. R.
A—This is the preferred treatment at the age specified and is often successful.

The MATURE PARENT
Great Grandmother's Wisdom:
'Duty's Nigh as Good as Love'
BY MURIEL LAWRENCE
She is 80 years old and comes from New England. When she recently became a great grandmother, she and I were among those at the hospital visiting the new mother. Noting that she was looking a little tired, I offered to take her home when I left.
As we settled ourselves in the taxi, she said, "Ah, well, young Baby now have her sorrows to seek now."
She is not at all the kind of old lady who makes doleful pronouncements like this and I was startled. "Why more sorrows than you or I?" I asked.
She gave me a sharp little look. "Why don't you write a column on duty?" she demanded. "That's what I gave my young ones. They got love, too, but there were times when I just couldn't give it. Then I did my duty. My boys and girls got on alright. You younger folks wear yourselves out to frazzles, so scared you're going to fail your children. Duty's nigh as good as love. Why don't you say so?"
So I said I would say so and I'm keeping my promise.
Duty's nigh as good as love. Why don't you say so?
It is not concerned with feelings but with deeds. Like so many old practical ideas, the idea of duty has been among lighter-minded thieves who have so robbed it of value for us that we no longer credit what it can do.
Duty is to act from moral conviction. Though an act of duty is less noble than an act inspired by love, it is still an act of which we mortals can be quite proud.
Duty comes in handy, for example when Sheila or Bill want to embroil us in excitable defense against an insolent or false charge. It does not require us to feel tenderness for bad temper, but just to do what we are supposed to do.
It calls for the control of the tongue's biting retaliation. It strengthens us and me to leave the room where juvenile anger rages and make a kitchen neat and tidy. It fortifies us to calmly iron the shirt needed for school tomorrow. It sends us to the sewing basket and the angry boy's sock that need darning. Though it cannot assert the divine peace of love, it can assert order of action in the midst of emotional disorder—and order is the root of peace.
If we do not think creatively for ourselves about this fine gift to children, we will continue to regard duty as a smugness and self-righteousness, and fall into the frustrations inevitable when we give nothing because we can't give the best.
Dr. Albert Schweitzer is one of the great loving spirits of our day. In his book, "Memoirs of Childhood and Youth," he recalls a teacher—a man who always had every lesson carefully prepared; who never gave more or less knowledge than he had planned to give; who always returned copy books on the proper day at the proper hour.
"Experience of this self-disciplined activity had a distinct effect upon me," writes Dr. Schweitzer. "That a deep sense of duty, manifested in even the smallest matters is a great educative influence and that it accomplishes what no exhortation or punishment can, has become with me a firm conviction."
Duty does well is humility and courage. It is both the recognition that we have failed to give the perfect thing and the decision to give the less perfect.
Those who sneer at it are romantic people. While they are still making pretty speeches about love, those of us who have turned to duty when love has failed in us, are enjoying the love the sneerers are just talking about.

The World Today
BY JAMES MARLOW
Washington, June 13.—(P)—President Truman is about the only politician having a good time.
Since he says he wants to vacate his present premises and has nothing to lose personally, he can sit back and enjoy the show.
It's a show the like of which hasn't been seen in these parts in 20 years. The Republicans, especially the Taft and Eisenhower fans, are beating one another over the head with sticks that get harder every day.
Since that is an occupation which, if pursued with enough gusto, might wreck the Republican party, it can hardly displease Truman.
He wants his own Democrats to win, of course, but at the moment the Democratic would-be presidents—at least those out in the open—are busy beating their gums.
Truman is letting them beat and hasn't named a favorite. He can afford to wait because his Democrats have at least one advantage over the Republicans in this campaign.
They hold their Chicago convention to pick a candidate almost two weeks after the Republicans have chosen theirs in the same place, a bit of political luxury enjoyed by the Democrats every four years.
This year, with their own race wide open, it may be quite a help to them—depending what the Republicans do—to be able to make a choice to fit the situation.
In fact some Democrats still hiding in the bushes with their suppressed desires for the White House may come charging out if they think the man the Republicans pick is one they can whip.
Once the conventions are over, Truman promises to take to the road for his party's candidate. He knows the road pretty well, having been over it in 1948 with much success.
And if there's a gleam in Truman's eyes when he wakes up these days it may come from having dreams the Republicans, by their pre-convention and convention tactics, may split themselves beyond repair.
The snarls exchanged between the Taftites and the Eisenhower fans get a little uglier every day.
Yesterday Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Eisenhower's campaign manager, accused the Taft forces of planning a "rough-house" at the convention. He said their actions are "shyster."
Taft himself got into the fight by saying the Eisenhower people are ruthless when they have an opportunity.

Ike Can Sound Off in Colorado; Truman Turned Down Chance
Washington—(NEA)—When President Truman turned down Colorado's invitation to attend the golden jubilee celebration of 50 years work under the Reclamation Act, the Coloradans turned around and invited General Eisenhower.
Democratic headquarters in Washington blew up at this on the grounds that it would turn the big June 17 celebration in the Greeley, Col., area into a political rally for the Republicans. Of course, if President Truman had attended there wouldn't have been any political implications at all, Oh, no!
Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman, who had intended all along to attend the Greeley celebration, was at first advised not to go to Colorado if General Eisenhower was invited. But now he's going, willy-nilly. He's an ex-Coloradoan himself, as well as being a principal Democratic strategist, so he has a double reason for going.
General Eisenhower is due in Denver about June 16, after visiting New York and Detroit. So he'll be handy for the Greeley water festival if he accepts. It would give him an excellent chance to sound off his views on irrigation, public power, flood control and water policy in general, which are the only real issues in the west. And the west wants to know how he stands on these things.
One reason Governor Dewey failed to carry the west in 1948 was that he did not heed California Gov. Earl Warren's advice to pay more attention to the water issue. Today, the principal opposition to Governor Warren as a presidential candidate in the southwest and mountain region comes from water users in those areas who fear that he would show a preference for California water rights over those of neighboring states.

Too Few Wives Are Impressed By Roles as Business Partners
News item from Cleveland: "After long experience with marriage and divorce, Judge Julius M. Kovachy is convinced that business contracts are more durable than marital vows."
Maybe one reason for that is that so many women fail to realize that marriage is among other things a business contract.
When a man and woman marry they become partners, not just spiritually and physically, but in a true business sense.
The best chance for each of them to wind up financially secure is never to forget that they are business partners.
When a woman gets a divorce she is not just saying that she will no longer be a man's wife, she is also relinquishing her share of business partnership.
True, she may get support for herself and her children—if she is lucky. FINANCIAL RETURN IS CONSIDERATION
But she won't get the full measure of financial return that she would get if she stuck by her marriage and her husband's income didn't have to support two households.
Too many women, disillusioned because a marriage isn't the perfect union they hoped it would be, decided on divorce.
They are so intent on getting their freedom, of saying "You can't treat me like this," that they entirely disregard the fact that they are voluntarily stepping out of a business contract in which they may have invested their hopes, their youth, and many years of hard work.
That isn't being noble—it is just being unrealistic. We would probably have a lot fewer divorces if wives were more impressed with their roles as business partners.

Central Illinois In Grip Of Heat Wave

June, a month normally respected for its weather perfection, kicked open the hot air register Friday.

Temperatures have been building up for several days. About the middle of this week residents of Central Illinois began to suspect that the heat wave wasn't just a flash in the pan. When the mercury scaled a neat 94 Thursday afternoon, there was general agreement that June isn't fooling.

At noon Friday the temperature was clocked at 92, and was still climbing. This was the official reading at the Norbury Sanatorium where the U. S. Weather Bureau instruments are located.

In the business district thermometers ranged from 94 to 100 at midday, depending on their location. West State thermometers in areas shaded by buildings were in the upper nineties during the afternoon.

"The hottest day of the year" was the perspiring conclusion of shoppers, office workers, farmers—anyone who expressed an opinion on the subject, and almost everybody did.

At 1 p.m. a temperature of 95 was recorded at the WLDL transmitter east of the city.

Thursday night went down in the books as "hot." Little air was moving to soothe fevered brows.

Corn grew "about a foot." Other crops and vegetation kept pace. Friday dawned bright and hot—hotter than on previous days of the week. The sun bore down with intensity usually reserved for July or August.

Ordinarily during a heat wave there is concern about its effect on

BELECTIONS

Strange how a landscape sets the imagination to work. Right now, looking at this scene, I can imagine all sorts of things.

Winged steeds riding to heavy music . . . pioneers in the wilderness . . . castles on the cliffs . . . boating at high speeds.

Look at the magic that enables the lake to mirror the rocky mountain peak and the heavens! The vastness and stillness of the scene sets my mind to wondering about time and space and things I will never understand.

But in standing here and wondering so, I feel like I've been near God.

There is a place where I can find Him always—in Church. Will you come with me?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dr. Belinson At Decatur Meeting

Dr. Louis Belinson, superintendent of the Jacksonville State hospital, was the principal speaker Thursday night at the annual meeting of the Council of Social Agencies held in the Y.W.C.A. in Decatur.

His talk presented the thesis that the community resources such as exemplified by the Council are really an extension of the state hospital. After diagnosis and intensive treatment, there comes a time when continued residence in the hospital is non-therapeutic. From this point on the patients return to the community and if the community resources are prepared, the convalescence to recovery is greatly enhanced and the chances of relapse are greatly minimized.
Seventy-five persons were present, all of them officers of the various social agencies in Decatur and Macon county.

Chicago Summer Furniture Mart To Open Monday

Chicago, June 14—(P)—Nearly 18,000 buyers from all parts of the country are expected to attend the summer furniture mart which opens Monday for a 10-day run.

The semi-annual show, held in the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart, is limited to members of the trade. The show is probably the greatest order-writing session in any industry.

The public will find copies of the present show samples on sale in neighborhood furniture, appliance and department stores this fall.

Managers of the big trade exposition agree that the contemporary, or modern, design is still predominant in furniture. But the style is trending definitely away from the severe, bizarre and angular.

Pittsfield, Ill., June 13—(P)—A coroner's jury has decided that George W. Hull, 55-year-old farm worker whose body was found on a country road near Hull Sunday night, was murdered by an unknown person.

The Pike county coroner's jury returned the verdict Thursday night. No motive other than possible robbery, has been advanced. State policeman said only 48 cents was found on Hull's body, but that he was known to have been carrying at least $17 the night before.

The jury decided Hull had been slain by a blow on the head with a blunt instrument.

Honor U of I Man For Agricultural Service To Nation

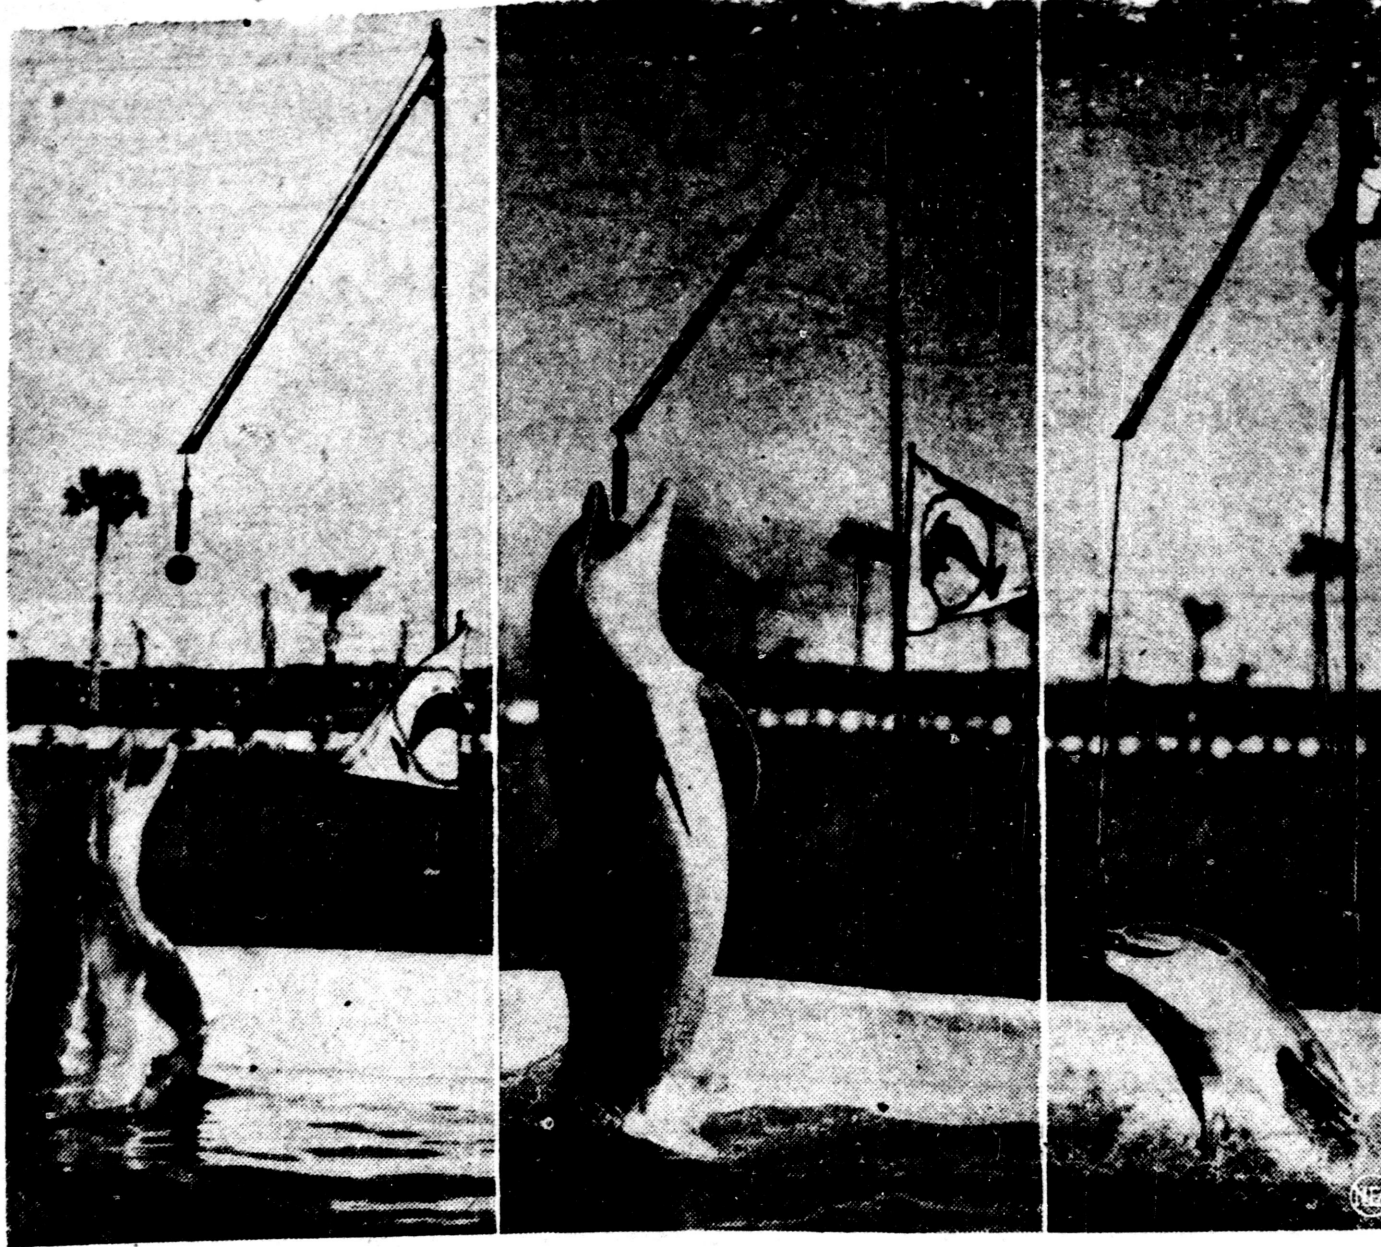

Chicago, June 12—(P)—Dean H. P. Rusk of the College of Agriculture at the University of Illinois, a university staff member for 42 years, was honored tonight for service to "agriculture in Illinois and the nation."

The entire dinner program of the 29th annual meeting of the National Livestock and Meat Board was devoted to recognition of Rusk's accomplishments. Among the speakers were Jay Taylor of Amarillo, Tex., chairman of the board; Dean H. H. Kildee of Iowa State college, Ames, Ia.; Charles P. Shuman of Chicago, president of the Illinois Agricultural association; and R. C. Pollock of Chicago, general manager of the board.

At the board's annual meeting today, reports of staff members placed Iowa, top-ranking state in corn production, in first place in meat output because of their record as pork-producing states, according to the staff reports. The ranks were based on live weight figures of farm production of meat animals. More than a third of the nation's pork was produced in these two states last year, the reports added.

11 HURT IN TUNIS BLAST

Tunis, Tunisia, June 13—(P)—Eleven persons, including two palace guardsmen of the Bey of Tunis, were injured last night by a grenade explosion in a crowded bazaar in Bard, near Tunis. Police blamed radicals demanding independence of this French protectorate.

ON THE UP AND UP—Flippy, a porpoise trained at Marineland, Fla., is a flag-raiser as well as an eyebrow-raiser. At either spoken or visual command, Flippy races across his tank, leaps out of the water to grasp a rubber ball, pulling it down to raise the Marine Studios' porpoise flag. At left, above, he leaps for the ball. At center, almost free of the water, he grabs the ball. Flopping back (right) he releases his hold on the ball just as the flag reaches the top of the mast

HIGH-OCTANE ELEPHANT—Huge symbol of the GOP is formed by more than 100 autos assembled at Dyche Stadium of Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. The "elephant's" component parts will be used by delegates to the forthcoming Republican National Convention in Chicago, which begins July 7.

10 B-29 Crewmen Lost In Pacific; Save Injured Pilot

Honolulu, June 13—(P)—Ten crewmen of a ditched B-29 Superfortress today were reported missing in shark-infested waters 175 miles west of Kwajalein.

The pilot of the 11-man crew, an Air Force captain, was rescued by a navy patrol craft four hours after the plane went down. He had a broken leg. His name was withheld.

The rescued man said the B-29 broke up quickly when it hit the water. He said he believed the others aboard were lost.

The Hawaiian Sea Frontier said two of the bomber's four engines apparently failed shortly after takeoff from Kwajalein for Guam.

Miamian's Sleep Disturbed; Seeks Arrest Of Pilot

Miami, Fla., June 13—(P)—A Miami man whose slumber was disturbed by a low-flying plane has sworn out a warrant to have the pilot arrested for disturbing the peace.

Marc T. Fisher-Galati said an Eastern Airlines plane piloted by Capt. Clyde Muirhead of Miami flew so low over his home at 12:30 a.m. (CST) yesterday it nearly jolted him out of bed.

"I have no malicious intent at all against Capt. Muirhead," said Fisher-Galati. "I never met him. I haven't a thing against him personally. But as pilot of EAL flight 638W I do have something against him."

Fisher-Galati said his check with Civil Aeronautics Administration officials convinced him the noise that Capt. Muirhead made in taking his New York-bound super Constellation over West Miami was improper.

Wind conditions at the time of take-off were calm and the control tower gave the pilot the chance of two runways, one of which would have taken the plane over the uninhabited Everglades, Fisher-Galati declared.

Emma Eames, 84, Retired Met Opera Prima Donna Dies

New York, June 13—(P)—Emma Eames, 84, a prima donna both on and off the stage during the golden age of opera, died today in her home.

Mme. Eames was a contemporary of Enrico Caruso, Nellie Melba and Adelina Patti, but won as much attention for her stormy romances and temperament as for her singing.

She achieved fame in Europe and America, then retired abruptly in 1912, saying she did not care to continue singing after her voice had passed its prime.

She was born in Shanghai, China, and first studied music as a child in Bath, Me. She won acclaim for a concert performance at the age of 17, and went to Paris to begin her operatic career.

Petrillo Toots Horn Against Taft

Santa Barbara, Calif., June 13—(P)—Senator Robert Taft has again come in for some blasts from the horn of James C. Petrillo, boss of the American Federation of Musicians.

"That guy, if elected, would break this union in two years," Petrillo said yesterday on the occasion of his reelection to his AFM post for his 12th term.

A few bars later, Petrillo said of the Republican presidential aspirant:

"I'm not telling you how to vote, but I am telling you if Taft gets into office, we'll be indicted six times a year."

Assert Stevenson Does Nothing To Discourage Draft

Springfield, Ill., June 13—(P)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois apparently is doing nothing to discourage the rapidly-growing assumption that he will not refuse the Democratic presidential nomination if it comes his way.

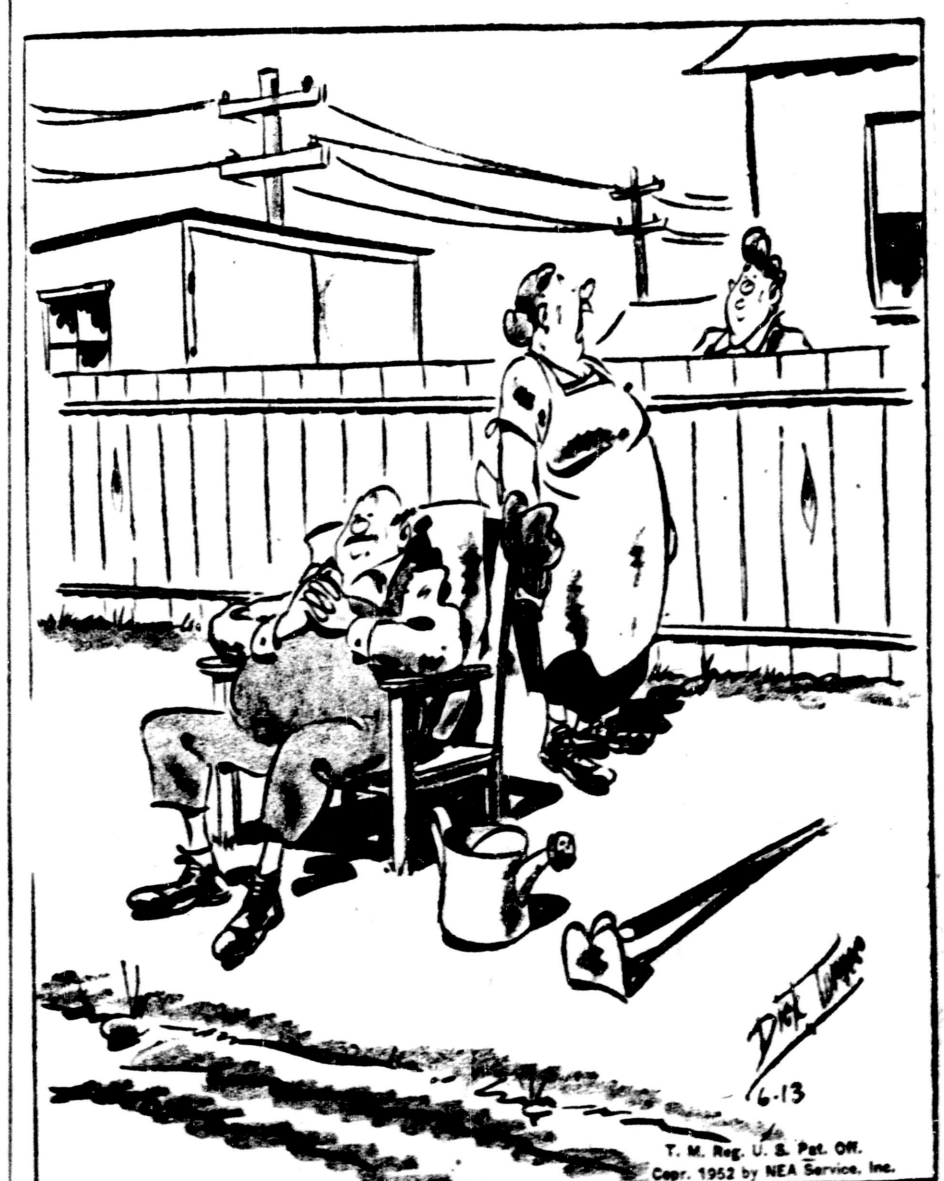

Although the governor returns a steadfast "no comment" to questions about a possible draft, his friends say he has not taken advantage of numerous opportunities quietly to scotch their moves pointed in that direction.

Jacob Arvey, Illinois national committeeman, tells all comers that Stevenson will respond to a draft. All the governor says, publicly and privately, is that he doesn't believe any draft will take place. He says all he wants to do is run for reelection.

But if Arvey and others have their way, there will be a movement at the Chicago convention next month to put Stevenson in the race. He probably will get Illinois' votes on the first ballot. If New York and Michigan then swing behind him, a bandwagon movement might be started.

Threaten Wife Of Hallinan, Jailed Progressive Head

Ross, Calif., June 13—(P)—The second extortion demand in a week was reported last night by Mrs. Vincent Hallinan, wife of the imprisoned Progressive party candidate for president.

She said a voice on the telephone demanded $5,500 on the threat of death to one of her family.

Ross Police Chief Joe Rigoni said the call probably was from a "crack pot."

Last week a police guard was maintained around the Hallinan estate after Mrs. Hallinan reported three calls in one day demanding $5,000 on the threat of a "death in your family."

Hallinan, an attorney, is serving a six-month sentence in McNeil Island (Wash.) federal prison for contempt of court while defending Longshore Leader Harry Bridges at the latter's perjury trial.

Tom C. Gooch, 72, Dallas Newspaper Publisher Dies

Dallas, June 13—(P)—Tom C. Gooch, publisher of the Dallas Times Herald, died at his home early today after an illness of seven weeks. He was 72.

As president and editor-in-chief of the Times Herald, Gooch had guided the destiny of the newspaper and its radio station, KRIL, since the death of its founder, Edwin J. Kliest, in 1941.

Under his direction the Times Herald also added its television station, KRIL-TV, to its properties.

Gooch was an editor of the old school. He never used a by-line nor signed an article, but when he expressed himself on public matters through editorials there was no question of authorship. Texas, and in many instances the nation, took notice.

He was a genius in presenting a word picture of things and issues in which he believed.

Oil Tankers Leave Iran; Defy British

Rome, June 13—(P)—Fifteen thousand tons of Iranian oil are on the high seas in three tankers bound for foreign ports in defiance of British warnings, Italian agents said today.

The cargoes—destined for Switzerland and Norway—are believed to be the first bulk sales since Iran nationalized the Anglo-Iranian Oil company.

Anglo-Iranian has threatened legal action against anyone purchasing Iranian oil while the nationalization issue remains unsettled. The matter is now being argued before the world court at The Hague.

Ann Leborne Weds Briton, Thatcher

Hollywood, June 13—(P)—Ann Leborne, French actress, and Torin Thatcher, British actor, who met in England while Miss Leborne was making the movie, "Crimson Pirate," were married yesterday.

Miss Leborne gave her age as 43 and Thatcher gave his as 47 when they obtained their marriage license preparatory to the ceremony by Monsignor Thomas Sheehy in the Catholic Church of the Good Shepherd. A honeymoon must wait until Thatcher finishes work on a film.

Author-Traveler Claims Calmness Key To Long Life

Chicago, June 13—(P)—A key for long life comes from Dr. Morris Fishbein, one of the busiest men in the nation.

The key is imperturbability, or calmness.

Dr. Fishbein is editor, author, lecturer, traveler, advisor, with perhaps a half dozen to a dozen projects at one time. Today at the American Medical Association convention he took time out—he always seems to have time—to tell secrets for health and long life.

How do you become imperturbable? "Avoid raising your voice. Don't get angry and shout. All you do is raise your own blood pressure. Not the other fellows."

"Don't get crowded. Take things one at a time. Accept disturbances and annoyances as they are. Don't tear yourself apart because you are not succeeding in some given effort."

"Don't avoid trouble—but meet it with equanimity. "Don't argue with stupidity. Walk away from arguments over futile or trivial matters. But I would hate to see a world where everyone walked away from arguments that produced facts by discussion."

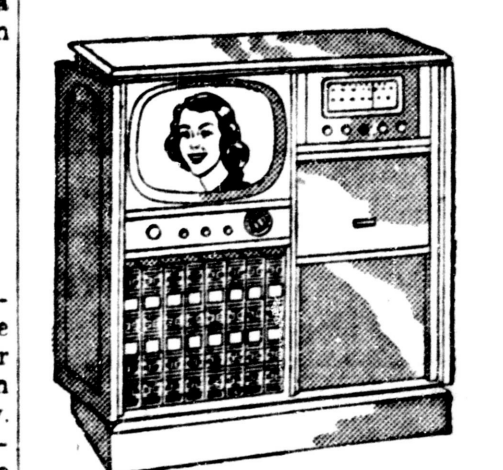

Dr. Fishbein's fame rests partly upon his energetic and sometimes stormy years as former editor of the Ama Journal.

Chicago, June 13—(P)—If you're superstitious, take it easy today. It's Friday, the 13th.

June is the only month in 1952 when the 13th falls on a Friday. The next date for the superstitious person to be careful is Feb. 13, 1953. There'll be two other jinx days in 1953, too, on Friday, March 13, and Friday, Nov. 13.

Grim Ben Hogan Takes Midway Lead With 136 In National Open

By Will Grimsley
Dallas, June 13.—(P)—The National Open golf tournament cringed today under the whip of its master and grim Ben Hogan seized the midway lead with a record-tying score of 138.

Fashioning his second straight one-under-par 69 over Northwood's sun-scorched fairways, the tight-lipped little champion matched the best 36-hole start ever made in this 56-year-old classic.

The record was set by Sam Snead in 1946 over the Riviera course at Los Angeles, where Hogan latched the first of his string of three championships. He missed 1949 because of a critical automobile injury.

Today's brilliant effort, in the eyes of most observers, reduced the 162-man field to one, since they say there will be no catching the bantam brawler from Fort Worth in Saturday's 36-hole showdown.

Closest man to the champion, two strokes away at 140, was George Fazio, a balding, 38-year-old part-time pro from Clementon, N. J., who equaled Hogan's 69 to become one of three able to crack Northwood's tough par 70 during the humid, windy day.

The other was tall John Bulla of Verona, Pa., twice runnerup in the British open, who had the best second round—a sizzling 68—for third place at 141.

Hogan's perennial links rival, sweet-swinging Sam Snead, wilted under the hot Texas sun and mounting pressure to take a 75, five over par, which put him seven strokes out of first place.

The first day wonder, bespectacled Al Broch of Garden City, N. Y., also found his second tour a bumpy one as he blew to a 79 after an opening 68 for 147.

This 52nd open continued to be a picnic for the sport's fortyish old guard with Julius Boros the only youngster threatening, and he's a damp-eared 32, as barnstorms go.

The husky Southern Pines, N. C. pro repeated a 71 for 142, which gave him sole possession of fourth place.

Tied at 143 were Lew (The Jaw) Worsham, 1947 open champion; Horton Smith, 44-year-old president of the Professional Golfers association, and Ed (Porky) Oliver, the rotund jarruper from Lemont, Ill.

Fight Manager Hauled On Carpet

Chicago, June 13.—(P)—Steve Ellis, manager of welterweight Chico Vejar, today was ordered to appear before the Illinois State Athletic commission Wednesday for a hearing on his alleged statement Vejar was very ill just before he lost to Chuck Davey here May 7.

Joseph Triner, commission chairman said Ellis, also a sports telecaster, was quoted in a New York newspaper saying a doctor examined Vejar the day of the fight and said he would diagnosis his illness "any way he wanted." The doctor was not identified.

Illinois Coaches Secure

Contented Mentors Lead Illini To 8 Big Ten Titles

By Bert Bertine
Sports Editor, Champaign-Urbana Courier

Champaign, Ill., June 13.—(P)—Does security in coaching pay off? Apparently it does at the University of Illinois, winner of eight Big Ten championships in a single school year. It was the first time in conference history a school swept the major titles—football, basketball, track and baseball.

Athletic Director Doug Mills, former Illinois athlete and coach himself, is a firm believer that a contented coach is a good coach. To be contented, he feels, a coach must not live in daily fear his job depends upon winning.

All of Illinois' championship coaches have a perfect example of security in their midst in Ed Manley, retiring swimming coach. Ed came to Illinois 40 years ago and is the only swimming coach Illinois ever had. He is retiring at 65.

Ray Eliot, whose gridmen were undefeated and won the Big Ten and Rose Bowl titles last fall for the second time in five years, is the dean of conference coaches.

Eliot has been head man at Illinois since he succeeded his own former coach, Bob Zuppke, in 1941. Ray was tempted by an attractive offer from Southern California a year ago, but the security angle at Illinois kept him from shifting.

Another "home grown" product is Harry Combes, basketball coach who has an amazing 13-year record in high school and college. During that span, Harry's quintets won 83 per cent of their games. He has guided the Illini to three Big Ten crowns in five years and he has produced a third-place winner in the three NCAA tournaments. Harry played his prep basketball at nearby Monticello and was an all-Big Ten forward at Illinois.

Next to Eliot in point of service is Leo Johnson, whose track squads now have won the last four Big Ten indoor and outdoor meets. Leo came to Illinois in 1937 from Millikin. Since then, he's won nine Big Ten championships. Eighty-six of his products have won individual conference titles and the Illini have copped the NCAA crown three times.

Newcomers also crashed the championship at this year. Buell (Pat) Patterson won the Big Ten wrestling crown in his second year after succeeding the late Newt Law. Previously, Patterson coached at Nebraska.

Freshman coach of the group is 29-year-old Lee Ellbracht, former Illinois coach and later a player in the Chicago Cub farm system. Ellbracht's first Illini baseball nine managed a co-championship this year with Michigan. It was a noteworthy coaching job since the baseball team perhaps had further to go towards a title than some of the others. Lee inherited a team from the late Wally Rottger that had no veteran pitchers, yet developed two. They were Gerald Smith and Clive Pollmer, who were the chief reasons for the Illini success.

Other members of the family of champions are the gymnastics and fencing teams, coached by Charles Pond and Mac Garrett respectively. Pond was brought to Illinois in 1949 to succeed Hartley Price who went to Florida State. In his four years his gymnastics teams have lost but one dual meet and have won the last three Big Ten titles. In 1950, his team also won the NCAA championships.

Garrett, who is president of the National Fencing Coaches association, finished his eighth year at Illinois with his fourth championship. His teams were runner-up upon three other occasions by either one or two points. He is an NYU product.

FAN BREEZES

BY BOB MERRIS

The Brooklyn Dodgers were happy to be leaving St. Louis yesterday for more reasons than the 100 degree temperature. The Cardinals rolled up three straight triumphs over the Brooklyn, something unheard of during last year's campaign. And to make things worse, the Bums had entered St. Louis in the midst of a red-hot seven-game winning streak.

Eddie Stanky's National Leagueers now have won five out of eight games with their arch rivals this season. The Redbirds left St. Louis with a 9-4 record on their home stand.

While things are looking up for the Cardinals, their American League neighbors, the Browns, are having trouble aplenty. Veeck's boys had a comfortable lead over Boston three days ago, only to blow the contest in the ninth. They came back the next day to lose 7-5 to the Beantowners when couple of Joe Demaestri booted a shortstop of ground balls. And that's not all. Catcher Clint Courtney suffered a split finger and will be out of action for two or three weeks.

This Marion suspension has an odor of rotten halibut, fillets. A couple of days ago we painted a portrait of Marty Marion as a gentle, lovable soul who wouldn't harm a pesky fly. The next day—his second as manager of the Browns—he argues with the ump, gets tossed out of the game and draws an indefinite suspension from American League czar Will Harridge.

Thus Marty may not be at the helm when the Browns play in Sportsman's park today. We think that the lanky shortstop might be an innocent victim of Bill Veeck's run-in with Rogers Hornsby. Baseball men don't like to see a manager ousted so quickly. It destroys their sense of security. Veeck isn't too popular with the diamond moguls right now, especially since the "anticipation proclamation" episode. It could be that Marion just happened to be standing in the target area when Harridge suddenly felt like chucking a grenade at the Browns.

Wimbledon, England, June 13.—(P)—The United States won the first three matches of the best-of-seven Wimbledon Cup tennis series today and made it virtually certain that the trophy will go back to America as it has for the last 21 years.

Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., started the winning parade with a 6-3, 6-3 verdict over Mrs. Jean Rinkel. Then 17-year-old Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., outlasted Mrs. Jean Walker-Smith, 3-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Finally, Miss Hart and her long-time buddy, Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, defeated Mrs. Rinkel and left-handed Helen Fletcher, 8-6, 6-4, in the doubles.

Red Rolfe Fines

Two Outfielders

Detroit, June 13.—(P)—Manager Red Rolfe of the last place Detroit Tigers slapped $25 fines on two outfielders for indifferent play today and predicted his club would get going on this home stand.

Red made the prediction after he was told that rumors were circulated he was about to be fired.

"I haven't heard anything about it," he grinned. A few moments earlier he had fined outfielders Vic Wertz and Cliff Mape.

"However, you've got to keep winning in this business. It could come at any time when you're losing."

His team, 151 games out of first place and in the cellar since the season's start, has lost its last seven games.

Over 3,500 fans poured into the fair grounds stands to watch the "new" races. And they were offered above-par excitement by the daring drivers. One auto crashed into the fence which protects patrons in the northernmost bleachers and stopped only a few feet short of the first row.

Another spun into a light pole and bounced 15 feet into the air. Still others went off the end of the fifth-mile track because their machines packed too much power, and had to use the half-mile oval until they could get back on the regular runway.

Most Jacksonville drivers made good their threat and stayed away from the track last night. Three local drivers did show up and performed well against the "souped-up" field of autos.

The crowd reacted favorably to the new drivers.

High winds raised heavy clouds of dust during the early part of the program and made the races even more dangerous.

And the racing machines weren't the only ones wrecked. The wind blew a tree limb onto the Buick passenger car owned by Harold Hempel, 220 W. Independence avenue, causing considerable damage.

Macomb Pilot Wins Feature At Fair Grounds

A complete new set of stock car drivers annexed victories at the Morgan county fair grounds last night.

Thirty-three hot-rod pilots from Macomb, Quincy, Rushville and many other Illinois towns descended on the local track when the field was thrown open.

Wayne Ham of Macomb, a favorite here last year, made his first appearance in Jacksonville this season a successful one as he piloted his machine to victory in the 40-lap feature race.

Only familiar names in the winner's circle were Earl Setser of Macomb, who had to hustle to win a semi-final and Russ Gross of Quincy, who won a curtain-raising match race.

Veeck, Marion Have Their Say Before Harridge

Chicago, June 13.—(P)—President Bill Veeck and Manager Marty Marion of the St. Louis Browns spoke their piece at American League headquarters today about Marion's indefinite suspension for a fracas with Umpire Bill McGowan Wednesday night.

But Will Harridge, league president, emerged after the two-hour conference requested by Veeck and said there would be no ruling until after he hears the other side of the story from Umpire Bill McGowan Saturday morning.

McGowan, who claims he was bumped by Marion during a rousing debate at Boston, arrives Saturday with Bill McKinley to officiate at the Boston-White Sox series. McKinley also was an umpire at the Wednesday night St. Louis-Red Sox game.

Harridge suspended Marion immediately after the ruckus. It was only Tuesday, the former St. Louis Cardinal shortstop and manager, had succeeded fired Rogers Hornsby as Brownie pilot.

Veeck disclosed he was irked by Hornsby's comment on the now famous "trophy incident" accompanying Rajah's dismissal at Boston Tuesday.

The trophy, Veeck had said, was presented to him by the players. It bore the inscription: "To Bill Veeck for the greatest play since the emancipation proclamation, June 10, 1952. From the players of the St. Louis Browns."

Veeck said he had conferred with lawyers and was told Hornsby's comment that "Veeck brought that trophy with him from St. Louis" was damaging to his reputation. "I could get my money back out of Hornsby's salary for that," Veeck said. He admitted, however, he would not start suit.

Chicago Hot-Ten-Tots vs. Murrayville (8:30 p.m.)

The Chicago Hot-Ten-Tots, colored softball champions of the world, will meet Murrayville's young ball club on the Nichols Park diamond tonight.

Verba Spencer's Murrayville club turned up for the meeting tonight by whipping State Hospital 5-2 in an "A" league game on the Southside last night.

The feature game will get underway at 8:30 this evening. A preliminary between the Cozy Dogs and Beardstown Merchants will start at 7 o'clock.

The Cozy Dogs, too, had a tune-up game last night. They whipped Rogersons Coal 10-0 in a five-inning "B" league game.

In the junior league game last night Pepsi Cola edged out Our Saviors 11-8.

The Hot-Ten-Tots will perform at Nichols Park on Sunday night also. The Chicago club will duel the House of Clay in Sunday night's feature. Lewis Elevator has been scheduled to meet the Alton Dominos in the preliminary to give fans a splendid two-game program.

The game, only one in the league today, put the Tribe a half game ahead of the Yanks, but New York maintained an edge in percentage, and Cleveland remained in third place. Boston's Red Sox moved back to the top, by less than half a percentage point.

The Standing:

W. L. Pct. GB

Boston 31 21 .591

New York 28 19 .595

Cleveland 32 22 .592

In tonight's hurling duel between the league's leaders in earned-run averages, Garcia had all the better of it. He didn't walk a man until the last inning when he issued harmless passes to Hank Bauer and Berra, and he struck out 10, six of them in the first three innings, including the entire side in the third.

Left out as a singles player in the Davis Cup matches last year, Savitt is eager to show the tennis world he can beat anyone.

Actually, Savitt, who has had his feud with the press, would not come out definitely today and say he would win at Wimbledon. He has his usual reticent self since he has learned it pays to be quiet.

"I'm in good condition," he said while signing autographs for the kids crowded around the club house of the Beckenham cricket club. "I'm trying to get back in the groove on grass. I'm practicing the same way I did last year."

How does he think he'll make out?

"I don't know. It will be tough. Eight of the first 10 ranking Americans are in it. Also, there's Jaroslav Drobny, not to mention the Australians. This will be a real, tough tournament."

Savitt is passing up the singles here, preferring to sharpen his strokes in practice sessions and doubles. He doesn't intend to play singles until Wimbledon, but he has looked good, in his appearances as Mulloy's partner.

"I'm just going to practice and hope, just going to try, that's all," he commented.

Says 600 Million More Pounds Meat To Be On Market

Chicago, June 13.—(P)—More meat—some 600 million pounds over 1951—will be available for the American consumer this year, says a live stock official.

R. C. Pollock, general manager of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, made the forecast in his report to directors at their annual meeting yesterday.

Pollock said meat production this year is expected to total about 22 1/2 billion pounds. That means a per capita consumption of 140 pounds, a gain of two pounds over a year ago.

He predicted the work output is expected to be about four per cent less than in 1951, but said there will be available seven per cent more beef, 12 per cent more lamb and six per cent more veal.

Russian Assaults Einstein Theories, Soviet Followers

Moscow, June 13.—(P)—A Soviet academician assailed physicist Albert Einstein today on the grounds that Einstein's theories are contrary to "dialectical materialism," the guiding theory of Marxism.

Writing in the Soviet navy newspaper Red Fleet, A. A. Maximov said Einstein had dragged physics "into the swamp of idealism." Einstein, he said, was guilty of "subjectivism," while the thesis of "objectivity of material nature" is basic to dialectical materialism.

The article then rapped certain Soviet physicists for holding views similar to those of Einstein, singling out Y. I. Frenkel and L. I. Mandelstam as "propagandists for Einstein's work."

Death in the Sierras

By Doris Hudson Moss
THE STORY: Rosemary Curtis, on vacation in the Sierras, finds herself involved in a murder. Mrs. Ordell, wife of a college professor, has been stabbed. Several times previously Rosemary had been the victim of mysterious threats and had been mistaken for a girl named Elsie Martinson.

AFTER the group seated itself, Dr. Roberts began. "Frankly, I came here to fish and relax. My practice in San Francisco has been demanding and I'm tired. But there will be no rest, because murder has been committed. And before that, poison was placed in a woman's tent. We must clear our selves."

I broke in. "Did Mrs. James tell you that Mrs. Ordell is the second woman to be murdered? The other was near Horseshoe Springs just before I arrived last night. The old man there told me and was nearly shot for his pains. The proof of the shooting is the bullet-hole in the fender of my car."

"Yes," Dr. Roberts hastened to say, "Mrs. James told us of your story of the murder, but first let's try to solve this one."

Rumba was fixing luncheon. We felt more cheerful at the prospect of food, when suddenly Dick Bannister, one of the university students, snatched up the platter of ham and held it for Dr. Roberts to see.

The ham was coated with a sauce and clinging to the sauce was a thin film of a white, powdery substance.

"Don't eat it," Dr. Roberts exclaimed. "It looks like the powder on the meat found in Miss Curtis' tent."

Robert's lips closed in a grim line. I agreed with him. I would eat no ham. We all declined to touch the meat and would eat only what came from freshly-opened cans.

I suggested a tray for Professor Ordell and Jeff took it across the narrow court to the Lodge.

He was gone but a few minutes

BY 7 o'clock Mr. James succeeded in reaching the coroner by telephone. The sheriff had gone to investigate a murder at Horseshoe Springs, the coroner said, and could be contacted there by phone, so he might reach Gold Lake earlier, although bridges had been washed out by the storm and there would be a delay.

Professor Ordell had recovered from his drowsiness and was talking to Dr. Roberts, who sat near me by the fire. "I'm going to my wife, whether James likes it or not," he said. "It was wrong for me to leave her there alone. I wouldn't have, except for the shock. I feel that James hustled us away too rapidly. There might be some clue we could have found. I'm going back."

His thin, esthetic face was drawn and pale, but there was a determined expression in the lines of his mouth.

"You're right," replied Dr. Roberts. "I'll get a flashlight and we'll both go."

"I'm coming along," I said. "I'm afraid to stay here."

But as we started on the slippery trail, Dr. Roberts' flashlight caught a glint on the dark earth. Professor Ordell stooped to pick it up. In the beam from the torch he wiped it clean with his fingers, revealing a thin, bright little $2.50 gold piece, dated 1834.

I thought I saw an exchange of sharp glances between the two men. Professor Ordell dropped the coin into his pocket.

It seemed odd to me that neither man spoke when this strange old coin was found but I excused them on the grounds that both were anxious to get on to the scene of the crime.

We approached the Ordell tent. I, for one, dreaded what lay within. My experience with death was slight and the memory of the gruesome stillness of Mrs. Ordell unnerved me. In spite of my mental urging against senseless fear, I found myself icy cold and shivering as Dr. Roberts turned the light on the wet tent flaps that billowed in the wind.

I noticed that the torch was in the Doctor's left hand, in his right was a revolver. I watched him gravely, for though I liked him, I wondered about the gun.

Then clearly it came to me that I had noticed Mr. James tie the canvas straps of the tent flaps before he herded us back to the Lodge after we found Mrs. Ordell.

There was a fateful streak of dark red on the tarpaulin which served as a counterpane.

To our utter horror, the body of Mrs. Ordell was gone!

FARMERS INSPECT LUSH PASTURES

By the Journal Courier Farm Editor

A YEAR AGO this Indian creek ridge was producing a few scrubby trees, many weeds and enough blue grass to support maybe a cow and a calf until the middle of July. Its gullies deepened with every rain.

Today it's a beautiful sight, covered with a heavy growth of alfalfa, timothy, broom grass and ladino clover. Eighty head of big steers are their fill there for more than three weeks before they were moved to another pasture. They didn't whittle it down much; there'll be plenty of feed this summer and fall, and for a long time to come.

This pasture was the final spot on Wednesday's tour sponsored by the Morgan county Farm Bureau and the soil conservation district. It's on the Warren Brookhouse farm about three miles east of Concord.

Other excellent pastures seen during the day were on the Jolley-Ames farm at the edge of Franklin, the Richard McConnell farm east of Franklin, and the J. H. Walker farm southwest of Concord.

Visitors Impressed

Good farming weather out the attendance, but many of those who did turn out during the morning or afternoon declared they were going to increase the productivity of the pastures on their land.

"After all," one farmer pointed out, "a pasture out to be more than an exercise lot with a fence around it."

Another added, "You can get by with the sorriest fence if you have a good pasture."

Farm Adviser E. H. Garlich outlined the five steps necessary to switch a poor pasture into a good one. The plan requires money, time and management, but good livestock will return handsome dividends on the investment, according to the findings of the College of Agriculture and many farmers of Illinois.

The plan as outlined by Garlich includes:

How To Do It

1. Test the soil. Don't guess that it needs four lime and no potash. Maybe it needs only two tons of limestone, and the difference will go a long way toward buying phosphate or potash.

2. Apply the needed elements, according to the results of the test. If one corner of the pasture needs 200 pounds of potash and another section requires only 50 pounds to bring it up to par, don't compromise by spreading, say, 100 pounds per acre.

3. Prepare a good seed bed. Sometimes discing will do, but a moldboard plow, disc and harrow are usually required to do the job.

4. Sow a good seed mixture, at least one legume and one grass. A blend of four to six legumes and as many grasses is splendid.

5. Regulate the grazing, preferably by dividing it into two, three or four sections, and clip the pasture high to control the weeds.

Full Instructions

"This is the procedure in brief," Garlich continued. We have a booklet at the Farm Bureau that will tell you exactly how to improve your pasture. "There's a copy for everyone that is interested."

Farmers who have developed good pastures say they like them for several reasons: they fit into a good rotation, one that enhances the fertility of the soil; they check erosion; they provide an abundance of high protein, mineral-and-vitamin-rich feed; they furnish high quality hay and grass silage; they make milk, beef, pork, mutton and money.

Springfield, Ill., June 13—(P)—Mrs. Clarice Shymansky denied from the witness stand in circuit court today that she shot and killed Glen Hardwick, 32 year old Beardstown automobile dealer, last Dec. 16.

Salvation Army History Traced In Rotary Talk

The history of the founding and growth of the Salvation Army was traced by Rev. Harris Pankhurst in a talk Friday at the regular meeting of the Rotary club.

The minister told of the Army's organization by William Booth in England early in the nineteenth century. Booth's method of preaching from street corner in an effort to save the souls of the poor met with opposition from established religious groups and saloon keepers.

As the Salvation Army grew and the good effects of its work was shown, the popularity of Booth and his organization spread throughout the world.

Rev. Pankhurst summed up his remarks by pointing out that as long as there are men, women, and children in need, there is need for the Salvation Army. He urged Rotarians to give generously in the local campaign for a new Salvation Army building.

The speaker was introduced by Frank Hoffman, program chairman for the day.
